OUR GOLDEN ANNIVERSARY

Indian summer weather favored the opening of the celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the First Congregational Church of Washington. The preparations for the event had been in the hands of a large committee, with Mr. Frederick L. Fishback as its chairman, and the thoroughness with which the plans had been made was evidenced by the smoothness with which the exercises of the several sessions were carried out. The auditorium of the church, the lobby and the social room were profusely and beautifully decorated with golden chrysanthemums, autumn leaves, ferns, palms, and evergreens, under the direction of the Ladies' Aid Society. It made a beautiful setting for the anniversary services and the effect was admired by all.

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 11

At the opening meeting on the evening of Thursday, November 11, Dr. Merrill E. Gates, LL.D., ex-president of Amherst and Rutgers Colleges, presided with his accustomed ease and finish. After the organ prelude by Dr. Stansfield, the large audience rose for the responsive reading of selection 68 in the hymnal, and remained standing while the assistant pastor, Rev. Robert W. Coe, pronounced the invocation. Following the singing of hymn 177, "I Love Thy Kingdom, Lord," Dr. Gates read a note of regret from Commissioner Brownlow, who was prevented by a pressure of official duties from being present. He then, in a scholarly introduction, outlined the rise of the Separatist movement in England, the reasons for its spread from New England westward rather than southward, and the shaping of events which made it peculiarly appropriate that a church of our denomination should be established at the Capital just at the close of the Civil War.

Mr. Walter L. Clift, who for many years was clerk of the church, previous to Mr. Whiting, then began the reading of his carefully prepared and deeply interesting historical sketch of the church for the past fifty years. Mr. Clift's voice did not permit him to read the entire paper, and at his request the reading was finished by Mr. Coe. Close attention to this historical review was given by the audience. To be enjoyed to the full the entire paper should be read as it appears elsewhere in this memorial volume.

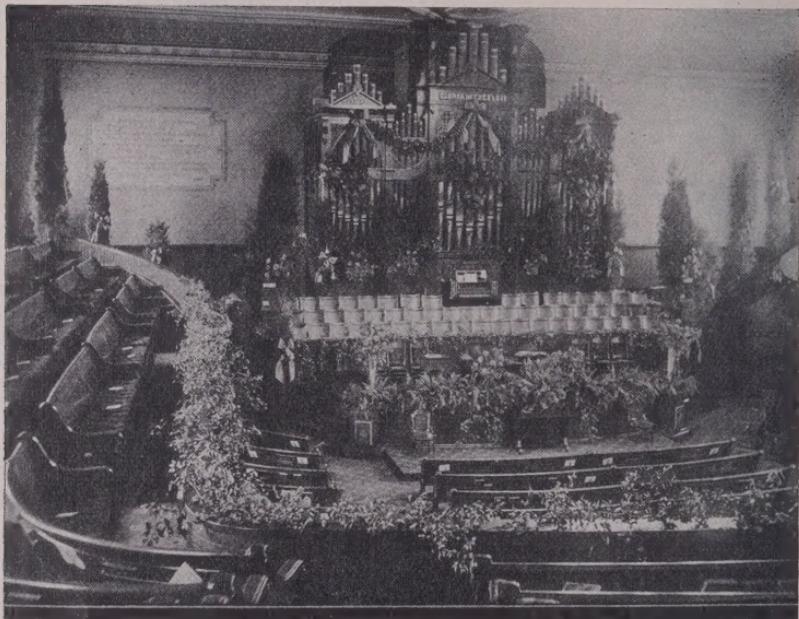

FIG. 1.—INTERIOR OF THE CHURCH, DECORATED FOR THE FIFTIETH ANNIVERSARY.

Upon the conclusion of the reading, the audience joined in singing hymn 425, "For All the Saints Who from Their Labors Rest." The chairman then introduced in succession, and with happy remarks, the several clergymen who had kindly consented to bring us greetings from their respective churches. They spoke in the order given in the program, the only absentee being Dr. McKim, who sent a cordial note which was read by Dr. Gates. The speakers united in expressing their appreciation of the work this church has done during the past half century; of the ideals for which it has stood; of its influence in the city; of the friendly relations it has fostered between our own and other denominations; of the assistance it has rendered to Mt. Pleasant and Ingram Memorial Churches, and extended their sincere congratulations and best wishes for its future.

The final prayer and benediction were given by Dr. Samuel H. Woodrow, one of our former pastors.

After the meeting, a large number of persons lingered to inspect the array of nearly two hundred photographs of former members which had been arranged in the west parlor by Misses Morrison and Mann. This picture gallery created a great deal of interest throughout the four days of the celebration.

FRIDAY EVENING, NOVEMBER 12

The Congressional Club of Washington and the members of Mt. Pleasant and Ingram Memorial Churches were invited to attend the meeting and reception on Friday night. In spite of a rainy afternoon and evening a goodly audience was present when Dr. Stansfield played his organ prelude. This was followed by the responsive reading of lesson 8 from the hymnal, an earnest invocation by Mr. Coe, and the singing of hymn 176, "Oh, Where Are Kings and Empires Now?" Dr. Isaac Clark, the presiding officer, in fitting introductory remarks, contrasted the growth of a child and that of a church, emphasizing the fact that at fifty years the church is not old but young. "We feel the flush of her beauty; the vigor of a maiden maturing into full womanhood. The Golden Jubilee is the coronation of the church, and we greet her as queen." He touched also upon the attitude of the minister as he faces the audience week after week, and wonders what the outcome of his work may be.

He then read a letter of greeting from Dr. S. M. Newman, our former pastor, now president of Howard University, who was absent from the city attending the inauguration of Dr. McKenzie as president of Fiske University.

Dr. Woodrow followed in a felicitous talk, full of his hearty geniality and sound sense, prefacing it with a cordial letter of greeting from the Pilgrim church at St. Louis, and with a verbal message of love and good wishes from Mrs. Woodrow. He said of our church that it was a privilege to preach where one was free to present any message whatsoever without fear or favor; a pleasure to work with so loyal and enthusiastic supporters; an inspiration to greet the large audiences he had had there. He explained his leaving us on the ground that he actually felt that more things depended upon Pilgrim Church at St. Louis than on any one church in the country, owing to its strategic position in the great Southwest, with so many churches and educational institutions relying upon it.

He complimented our church upon its contributions for benevolence, which he estimated at no less than $200,000 for the fifty years, and upon the amount (which he estimated at no less than $650,000) spent for the maintenance of the church. He referred to the large number of members received during the past half century, and called attention to the fact that Congregationalism is growing along the southern and western border lines as it is nowhere else, as evidenced by the fact that in fifty years six self-sustaining churches with over 3,200 members have been established in this small territory of the District of Columbia; a result that cannot be duplicated anywhere else.

Dr. Stocking gave us one of his characteristic talks, a serious message with humorous touches here and there, and the whole surcharged with heartfelt cordiality and sincere good-will. He mentioned the fact that the late Lester B. Platt, a member of this church, was for a time pastor of the church in Upper Montclair of which Dr. Stocking is now in charge. He remarked with evident humor that he was glad to meet Dr. Woodrow in person on this platform, because during his own pastorate Dr. Woodrow's ghost frequently had stood by him there. He created considerable amusement by repeating a few comparisons between himself and Dr. Woodrow with which he had been favored by some members of the congregation.

Continuing in a more serious vein, he asserted that "one can never think lightly of the privilege of speaking in this pulpit. It is as free as God's wind. Like the thistle down flying before the breeze, the word spoken here scatters east, west, north, and south. It is a good thing to preach the gospel in this place, and it is a good thing to keep this place for the preaching of the gospel. We can stand upon the past, but just enough of it to give weight to the present and help us to build wisely for the future." He remarked in closing that the year and a half he had with us was the most fruitful time he had ever known.

At the conclusion of Dr. Stocking's remarks, Mr. Coe read a four-page letter of greeting from our foreign missionary, Rev. Lorin S. Gates, of Barsi and Sholapur, India. Mr. and Mrs. Gates are still members of this church, and Mrs. Gates was a sister of our well-beloved Prof. Henry A. Hazen.

A white screen was then drawn up at the rear of the platform, and Mr. Fishback gave a most interesting half-hour talk on Washington City as it was fifty years or so ago, illustrating his address with lantern slides showing buildings, scenes, and people of that now far-away time.

About 10 o'clock the majority of the audience trooped upstairs to the Sunday School room for a social hour. The room was beautifully decorated with flowers and palms and the Ladies' Aid Society provided everyone with cake and ice cream. The lateness of the hour and the crowded condition of the room necessitated the omission of the music that had been arranged for.

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 13

Clear skies greeted the people who set forth for the two meetings on Saturday. The first was the vesper session of the women's societies; the second, the musical program in the evening.

It was a great regret to all that Mrs. Julia T. Bodfish was prevented by ill health from presiding at the women's meeting at 3.30 p. m. She was able to be present, however, and enjoy the fulfilment of what she had planned so thoughtfully. Mrs. Edith T. Barnes conducted the opening exercises, which consisted of the singing of hymn 173, "The Church's One Foundation," a responsive reading, and a prayer of fervent thanksgiving and earnest petition by Mrs. Mary E. Catlin.

Then followed, under the direction of Miss Alice H. Clark, a unique presentation of the history of the various women's societies. While the organist played "Auld Lang Syne," a group of some fourteen ladies gathered on the platform, and in an informal manner, sometimes by reading a paper, sometimes by off-hand remarks, sometimes by lively colloquy, told the large audience present about the rise of the Ladies' Aid Society, the Ivy Leaves, the Women's Missionary Society, Mission Club, and so forth. Mrs. W. L. Clift recounted the formation of the Ladies' Aid, at first called the Mite Society, organized when the church met in the Columbian Law School Building, and having Mrs. Boynton for its first president. She spoke of the many lunches given by the society; of the "Ben Hur" entertainment, composed and directed by Mrs. Bradford. Mrs. Miles recalled the refrescoing and refurnishing and the aid given to the trustees; the flowers for decorating the church; the testimonials, and the like, amounting in twelve years to $9,304.

At this point Mrs. Sidney H. Perham read an original poem entitled "The Ladies' Aid of the Old First Church," which was well received.

The history of the Women's Foreign Missionary Society was begun by Mrs. J. B. Johnson, who was a member when it was organized in 1871. The Ivy Leaves, a society of girls, was described by Miss Martha N. Hooper, an original member; the Willing Workers, by Mrs. George W. Stone, also an original member. Miss Emily S. Cook told how the Mission Club was started at the suggestion of the late Mrs. George P. Whittlesey, at the time her friend Miss Frances Hooper went to Japan as a missionary. Miss Lydia B. Holbrook, one of the early presidents of the club, gave an entertaining account of its changes of name, and stated that in thirty-two years the club had raised nearly $12,000 for foreign missions.

Mrs. Velma S. Barber told of the founding of the Ladies' Home Missionary Society in 1884, and Mrs. George J. Cummings paid a warm tribute to Mrs. S. M. Newman, who had been its capable president for many years.

The progress of the Women's Foreign Missionary Society from 1891 to 1901 was related by Mrs. M. Helen Sawyer, who was followed by Mrs. Mary W. Story in an account of what it had done since the two "morning" societies (home and foreign) were fused into the Women's Missionary Society. During the past year this society raised $1,050.

The ladies' symposium then adjourned to make way for the pageant entitled "The Vision," composed and conducted by Miss Elsie Hand, of Philadelphia. It represented the vision of Saint John when he caught sight of the Holy City. A procession of white-robed "angels," bearing palm branches, filed slowly up the main aisles to the choir loft, singing as they went. Then a little girl, Miss Dorothy Shore, singing over and over the refrain of "I Love to Tell the Story," walked slowly from the platform to the back of the church, where she met a procession of women garbed to represent various "heathen" nations of the earth, who marched up one of the aisles singing "Jesus, I Come," and joined the group in the choir loft.

There was concert reading of scripture, waving of palms, more singing, and finally the "angels" grouped themselves in the form of a great white cross, with their "heathen" sisters harmoniously disposed on either side. The entire company then sang a recessional. The effect of the whole pageant was exceedingly beautiful and touched the hearts of all.

An excellent audience gathered in the evening for the organ recital by Dr. Stansfield, which was rendered in his usual finished style. The tribute to Dr. Bischoff, by Dr. Newman, was a most delightful portrayal of the character and services of our famous organist, written with the illuminating knowledge of one who had been for twenty-one years not only his pastor but an intimate companion and friend. This paper also is found in another part of this volume.

A poem entitled "Memories," by Mrs. Bertha Gerneaux Woods, was read by Mr. Fishback and is printed on a later page of this book.

At the close of Dr. Newman's paper, four former pupils of Dr. Bischoff, namely, Mrs. B. H. Smart, Miss Edna Scott Smith, Mr. Wm. St. John Blanchard, and Mr. J. Walter Humphrey, sang two quartettes, and solos for soprano, contralto and bass, composed by Dr. Bischoff.

SUNDAY, NOVEMBER 14

This proved to be a rainy day, but the inclement weather seemed to have little effect in keeping people away from the various services.

No extensive exercise commemorating the founding of the Sunday School had been planned, because of the very full church program for the day. Former superintendents of the school had been invited to attend the service and two of the four still living in Washington were present. These two were Judge Edward P. Seeds and Prof. George J. Cummings, each of whom brought an earnest message to the school of today. Professor Cummings was the superintendent at the time the twenty-fifth anniversary was celebrated. In the closing exercises of the school, Dr. Samuel H. Woodrow, our former pastor, brought to the school one of his usual happy and helpful talks.

In spite of the rain, an audience of a thousand or more were present at the morning service and listened with pleasure to the inspiring sermon preached by Dr. Jay T. Stocking on the theme, "The Unchanging Church." The full text of this sermon is printed hereinafter.

At the afternoon communion service some five or six hundred communicants gathered around the Lord's table, where Dr. Newman distributed the elements after receiving seven new members into the church. The full text of the communion sermon by Dr. Newman is printed in another part of this volume.

At the close of the service, the audience sang the widely known hymn, "God Be With You Till We Meet Again," composed by our former pastor, Dr. Jeremiah E. Rankin. In announcing this hymn, Dr. Newman said:

"Among the many good things which have spread abroad from this church nothing has had a wider circulation than that hymn written by the second pastor of the church, Dr. Jeremiah E. Rankin. I suppose that hymn has been sung by more people, through its adoption by the Christian Endeavor hosts, than almost, if not quite, any other hymn in existence. I have heard it in all parts of the country, in gatherings small and large. It has been sung by a few, it has been sung by thousands upon thousands in one assembly. It has had a great history, and it is really something upon which this church should be congratulated that the birth of that hymn was in the pastorate of this church organization; that Dr. Rankin gave it to the world, and that Dr. Bischoff practically determined the form of the setting. He always told me that it was his setting, modified somewhat by Mr. Tomer, so that really the birth of the hymn and the tune were in the pastorate and musical service of this church. It was at first planned to sing it at the close of these anniversary services tonight, but inasmuch as the Hallelujah Chorus is to be used this evening, it was thought that perhaps it would be more appropriate for this communion audience to sing it. I will therefore ask you to close this service by joining in the singing of this hymn, No. 502, 'God Be With You Till We Meet Again.'"

Mention should be made here of the Christian Endeavor meeting, held at 6.45 p. m. Sunday evening, although it was not a scheduled part of the anniversary exercises. As arranged, it was a joint meeting of Sections A and B, led by the assistant pastor, Mr. Coe. An unusually large number was in attendance. Brief talks were given by the presidents of both societies and by several past presidents of the senior society. These were followed by brief but inspiring addresses by Dr. Jay T. Stocking and Dr. S. H. Woodrow, former pastors of our church.

At the evening service, a capacity audience greeted Dr. Woodrow, and gave close attention to his excellent sermon upon "The Supreme Aim," which is printed in full hereinafter.

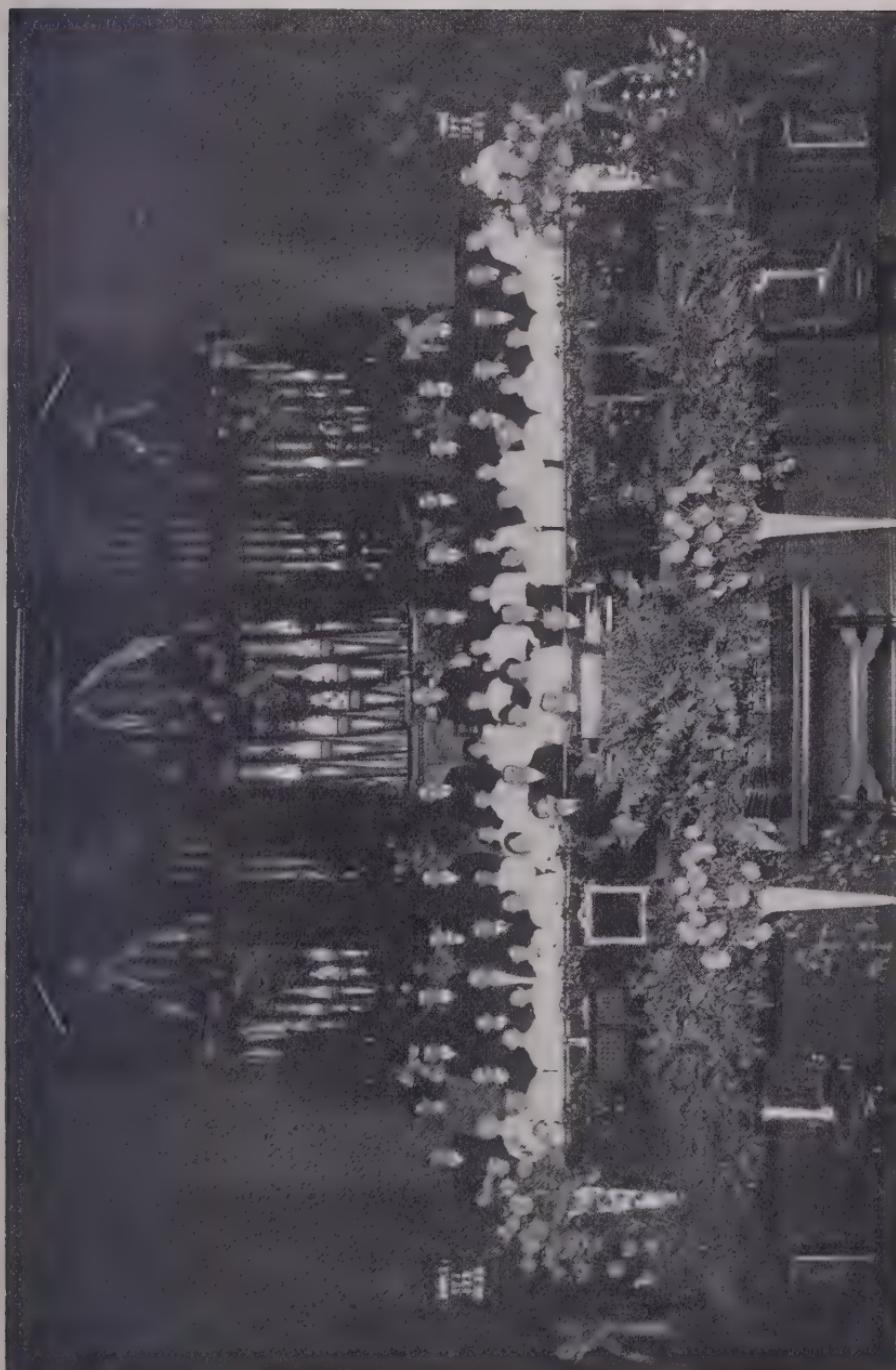

FIG. 2.—ANNIVERSARY CHOIR AND THE GREAT ORGAN, NOVEMBER 14, 1915.

At all the various sessions of the celebration, the music was a special feature, under the skillful direction of Dr. Stansfield. For the Sunday services the choir was recruited to its full strength and composed almost wholly of former pupils of Dr. Bischoff. All of its work, as also that of the soloists, was up to a high standard of excellence, giving great enjoyment to the listeners.

The entire jubilee celebration has put new life and courage into the church. It has demonstrated that, in spite of our having no pastor just now, there is a strong vitality in the organization that is equal to unusual demands; that there is an esprit de corps able to rise above seeming discouragements, and that the outlook for the next fifty years is bright with promise of increased usefulness in the community and of more devoted service for the Master.

THE FIRST CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH<sup>1</sup>
By WALTER L. CLIFT

EARLY CONGREGATIONAL EFFORT IN WASHINGTON

On the third day of August, 1847, a few gentlemen met at the law office of Bigelow & Peugh, on the corner of E and Seventh Streets in this city, to consider the question of the formation of a Congregational Church in the city of Washington. They were a band of sturdy Congregationalists, few in number, poor in pocket, but splendidly faithful to their denomination. This was proved by their only resolution at their first meeting, which was more positive than it was grammatical.

"Resolved, that we proceed to the organization of a Congregational church in the City of Washington, essentially on the plan of the Cambridge platform; whose standard of piety shall be high; whose doctrines shall be evangelical; and whose action favors the leading reforms of the day, including Bible, Missionary, Tract, Antislavery, Sabbath school and Temperance efforts."

It must have been the first time in the history of this city and of the entire South that a religious body was organized, having an antislavery plank in its platform. It is doubtful if there were many churches in the North that as early as the forties had that idea in their church creed.

Their first meetings were held here, there, everywhere. They had preaching occasionally, a Sabbath school all the time.

One of their own number, Mr. Cookman, offered to build a church and rent it to them. The offer was gladly accepted, and the first Congregational church building was erected on Eighth Street, and though twice enlarged, was later destroyed to give place to the present Jewish Synagogue. You will pay to that site the reverence which is due to the place where the Congregationalists of this city first worshipped, it being also the spot where our Hebrew brethren now bow before Jehovah.

<sup>1</sup> Prepared for the fiftieth anniversary of the founding of said church, to be celebrated November 11 to 14, 1915. The narrative relating to the period antedating Dr. Rankin's pastorate is mainly a reproduction of the paper read by Mr. William R. Hooper, when the church celebrated its twenty-fifth anniversary. Many facts, principally concerning the church building and the site thereof, were gathered by Prof. A. N. Skinner from the records of the First Congregational Society. The church records and Mr. Clift's personal recollections, together with certain additions by Mr. George P. Whittlesey, form the basis of the remainder of what here appears.

They found the hostility of the whole city arrayed against them. They were an antislavery church, more than that, an abolition church; and the Washington of 1848 was an extremely proslavery city. It was completely dominated by Southern influence. Nor was this the opinion of the rabble merely; it was the belief of the clergy, of the bar, of all reputable inhabitants of the District. The whole city was hostile to an antislavery church.

There was another difficulty in the way. They were divided among themselves. Needing union as no other church ever needed it, they were constantly quarreling. All abolitionists possessed an intense courage of their convictions and were determined to impress them on everyone else. Garrison's Memoirs illustrate that. Our Washington friends of that date were no exception. They quarreled at every meeting. Seeing no escape from difficulties without or within, they called a council to see if they should be organized as a church. After hearing the evidence, the council decided that it would decline to recognize them as a church, unless Mr. Bigelow, the leader of one of the warring factions, should withdraw. But as he preferred to remain in his leadership of half the little gathering, the council departed without constituting them a church. They held a few more meetings, and then quietly and gradually dissolved.

The second attempt began five years later, in 1852. The Trinity Episcopal Church of this city had just left the building in which it had worshipped for so many years and moved to its present building on Third Street. The old place of worship, known to us of modern times as the Columbia Law Building on Fifth Street, was for sale. At once the Congregationalists, attracted by its cheapness, endeavored to purchase it. Unfortunately there were two difficulties in the way. The Congregationalists of this city were a puny folk, very few in number and very poor in pocket. But the denomination outside the city was quite desirous that a Congregational church should be established at the capital of the nation, and was willing to pay for it.

For some little time an effort had been made to maintain a Congregational church here. The new religious enterprise was to be two things: it was to be a Congregational church, and it was to be a radical antislavery church. Two invitations were given to our future pastor, Rev. Dr. C. B. Boynton, of Cincinnati, to fill this pulpit, but both invitations were declined. There was a quarrel running through the church, as before, on abolitionism. Mr. Lewis Tappan, of New York, one of the most prominent abolitionists in the land, then sent here a young man named J. B. Grinnell who had just graduated from an orthodox theological school, and who was warranted sound on the slavery question. He preached a little while, but was unable to hold the small church, which called another young man, Rev. Alexander Duncanson, who had just come over from old Scotland.

Just at this time the old Trinity building came into the market for sale and Mr. Grinnell, who was an eminently practical man, at once offered to buy it for the church. Armed with strong letters he went to New England and New York and said to wealthy Congregationalists:

"The First Congregational Church of Washington wishes to purchase a church building, and asks your aid. It does not ask you to give any money; it does not ask you to lend any money; it only wants you to make an investment by the purchase of a pew in the building. It shan't cost you anything; you will own the pew and its pew rentals will belong to you; and in this way you will help us to purchase the building."

And as most people are willing to do a good act when it costs them nothing, our practical theological student induced so many people at the North to buy imaginary pews in an imaginary church, that he came back to Washington laden with money enough to pay the first instalment on the building. In this way he secured possession of the premises.

For the second time the Congregationalists of Washington had a building in which to hold religious worship. They established a Sabbath school, and among the teachers of that little school were two young ladies,<sup>2</sup> sisters, one of whom afterwards became the wife of the pastor of this church and the other the wife of one of our best trustees. And now this practical young theologian, seeing that the church was about the weakest one of our denomination in the country, unable to support a pastor, determined to call the largest council ever held in the United States; and the small church sent out 150 letters missive to 150 of the largest churches in the land, asking them to attend by pastor and delegate.

Every church was represented. A council of 300 pastors and delegates came to visit a little church of not one-tenth of their number. Prof. Calvin E. Stowe, of Andover, was made moderator, and so large was the council that it was necessary to have two scribes, one of whom came to swell with us in his old age, Dr. J. W. Chickering, of Portland, Maine. It took all of the first day and a little of the second before the two scribes could get the council in running order; and then the young Scotchman, Mr. Duncanson, stood up before that large council to state his theological views. It must have been an extremely embarrassing situation for that young man. He was a foreigner, standing up before 150 of the leading clergymen of our denomination, and 150 of the leading laymen. But he went along very nicely in the statement of his theological views, till he came to the doctrine of the perseverance of saints. Here, unfortunately, he believed what his eyes saw and what his ears heard, that Christians do fall away; and so he stated to the council. When the council retired by itself (which it did by turning everyone else out of the meeting house), those old theological war-horses were of the opinion that a man who held such an heretical doctrine as that, that a man might fall from grace, was not fit to be entrusted with a pulpit in the capital of the nation; and they rejected him. Then came up the question of the support of the little pastorless church and a western pastor. Rev. Mr. Smith, was laying down the law quite strongly in favor of its support, when he was interrupted by Henry Ward Beecher, who remarked: "Your talk is very good, Brother Smith, but money is wanted: how much money will you give?" "Just twice as much as you will, Brother Beecher, in proportion to our salaries," and as Brother Beecher then had, perhaps, the largest salary of any Congregational clergyman in the United States, he felt answered and sat down.

The council had heard one Congregational sermon during the week. One of its members, Henry Ward Beecher, was then rising to be the leading orator of the ministry in the land, and he preached to a crowded congregation in the new church on Fifth Street. Hon. John McLean, the Postmaster General, and perhaps other dignitaries were there; but the majority of the audience was the council itself, who desired to hear its young brother minister.

So large a council had another effect: it called public attention to the church and to its antislavery opinions. Hardly had the council adjourned before every clerk in the Departments, who was connected with the young church, came to know that if he chose to remain connected with an antislavery church, he was likely to lose his position under the Government. And almost all of them gave up connection with the church, as rapidly as rats desert a sinking ship.

Mr. Duncanson having been rejected by the council, the very little church, further depleted by the absence of the clerks in the Departments, began to look around for another pastor. Many years after this, Ralph Waldo Emerson advised young men, who desired to rise in life, to hitch their wagon to a star. Mr. Emerson was not original in this advice. It was first put in practice by the First Congregational Church of this city, which, being very few in numbers and very poor in pocket, and unable to pay a salary to their minister, invited the rising clergyman of the day, Rev. Henry Ward Beecher, to be their pastor. Unfortunately the star would not be hitched to the church. Mr. Beecher declined. Rev. J. P. Thompson, of the Tabernacle Church, New York, then offered to see that the church was helped if they would call Rev. Horace James, of Worcester, Mass. But Mr. James declined. They then called the Rev. George W. Bassett, or else Mr. Bassett called himself, it is not certain which. He was a model pastor, for he at once informed the church that he was well off and needed no pay; and that all their collections and pew-rents might be turned in towards their debts. Of course his offer was promptly accepted. But after some months Mr. Bassett called the church together and informed them that he had met with such financial reverses that he could no longer serve them on such terms. So he left. This church seems to have been peculiarly unfortunate. Within five years it called Henry Ward Beecher, Rev. Charles B. Boynton twice, and then Rev. Horace James. It had the ministerial services of Revs. J. T. Avery, J. D. Potter, J. B. Grinnell, Rev. Dr. Nevins, J. Miter and Alexander Duncanson—ten in all in five years. Nine declined or didn't suit and the other one was rejected by the council. And then the little church died. Its struggles for life had lasted six years, from 1852 to 1858. And so the building, where the Episcopalians worshipped for so many years and the Congregationalists for so few, fell back into the hands of its original owners and was sold for a stable.

ORGANIZATION OF THE FIRST CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH

The third attempt to form a church in this city begins several years later—eventful years in our country's history. War was raging throughout the land. In the middle of that war Mr. W. R. Hooper inserted in the New York Independent an article on the necessity of a Congregational church in Washington, and the article attracted much attention outside the city. Rev. Dr. Thompson, pastor of the Tabernacle Church in New York, and others were interested; but no one inside the city took any notice of the article. It almost seemed as if there were no Congregationalists in Washington. Just at this time, the Christian Commission, desirous of ministering to the spiritual wants of the sick, wounded and dying, was sending to the front all clergymen who would labor spiritually in the army. And as all those who were destined for the Army of the Potomac had to pass through Washington, Mr. Hooper relates that he secured, from among these, a preacher; and quoting further from his narrative:

"I told him we could not afford to pay him anything—didn't know as we could give him an audience—but I was very desirous of finding out whether there were other Congregationalists in Washington, and if so, whether there were enough to found a church. I went down to Temperance Hall, a small room on Ninth Street, and asked if I could obtain the use of their hall for Sabbath services. 'Certainly, by the payment of $4.' So I paid the money and had thus secured a church building and a preacher; now for an audience. I went to all the newspaper offices in the city and inserted an advertisement that Rev. Mr. So-and-so, a Congregationalist minister, would preach to the Congregationalists of Washington on the ensuing Sabbath. I confess to you that I felt a good deal of anxiety when that Sunday came. I did not know but that I should constitute the whole audience and that the sermon would be severly personal to myself. And great was my delight, as I came late, bringing the clergyman with me, to find assembled an audience of some thirty persons. Here were those whom we all learned afterwards to know and love in our church relations—Rev. William Russell and wife, Rev. E. W. Robinson and wife, Mr. Horace White and wife, and others, all good Congregationalists and true, who stood by the church through all the trying scenes that were before them. And great was my astonishment to see in that audience Mr. Grinnell, the theological student who, ten years before, had tried to start the church. Then he was poor and seeking employment; now he was rich, a city was bearing his name, he had founded a college and he was back in Washington as a member of the House of Representatives.

"For two or three weeks we depended for our ministerial supply upon the rooms of the Christian Commission—on one occasion having an audience of nine. And then we heard that the Rev. Charles B. Boynton, a leading Congregational clergyman, who had twice before been called to the pastorate of this little church, had just come to Washington, having been appointed to a position in the Naval Academy at Annapolis, with headquarters at Washington. The object of his appointment was the writing of the history of the Navy during the war. And as there was then no church organization here, and every man did that which was right in his own eyes, three of us, Mr. Robbins, Mr. Charles H. Bliss, and myself, invited Dr. Boynton to my room, and there we asked him to take the pulpit of this church with a salary of $1,800 a year. He at once accepted. Some time after we brought his name before the church, and he was elected pastor. Then the small Unitarian Church, now the police court room, was obtained and for a while we worshipped there; and then we went down to the Avenue, to Metzerott's music store, since Droop's, where was a large hall running over two stores, and engaged it for our Sabbath exercises. So at last, and for the third time, the Congregationalists of Washington had a place of worship, and a regular pastor.

"But even before it became a full-fledged church, its members were never troubled by an excess of modesty. On October 2, 1865, a committee consisting of B. F. Morris, William Russell,

E. W. Robinson, William Wheeler, W. S. Bailey, S. P. Giddings, C. H. Buxton, E. L. Stevens, G. H. Williamson, W. R. Hooper, C. S. Mattoon, Dr. H. Barber, H. A. Brewster, C. H. Bliss, A. H. Raymond, L. Deane, A. T. Longley, and J. B. Johnson, called upon Andrew Johnson, President of the United States, and informed him we were a delegation from the great Congregational Church of the United States; and we asked his Excellency

to appoint a day of national thanksgiving and prayer. Mr. Lincoln had once or twice appointed days of thanksgiving for special occasions. But we asked Mr. Johnson to begin the appointment of a yearly thanksgiving. He granted us our request and appointed the first thanksgiving day, a national celebration, started by the Congregationalists of Washington.

“Our new pastor, Rev. Dr. Boynton, preached a very acceptable sermon. I have sat under deeper and more thoughtful pastors; but I never sat under one whose crisp sentences more happily filled the public ear, unless indeed it was Lyman Beecher, father of all the Beechers. He soon filled the hall. Then we found that the old building on Fifth Street, that had first been an Episcopal church, then a Congregational church, and then a stable, had been purchased by Columbia College, and contained in its lecture room an excellent place for our Sabbath services.

So we moved there, and there held our church meetings during the warm months of summer. When winter came and brought Congress with it, we went to the House of Representatives and stated to the Members of the House that the Congregationalists had never been represented in its list of chaplains. And we asked the House to choose Dr. Boynton as its chaplain.<sup>1</sup> The House graciously assented and Dr. Boynton was duly elected. Then we addressed ourselves to Hon. Schuyler Colfax, Speaker of the House, and told him we wanted the great hall for our regular place of worship on Sundays. Mr. Colfax granted us our request, and now for the first time divine worship was regularly held in the hall of the House of Representatives. I have said that Dr. Boynton was a remarkably good sermonizer; and his eloquence and the character of the place of meeting drew great crowds. An audience of nearly 4,000 assembled every Sabbath in this large hall. Such an audience was in itself an inspiration. This audience was undoubtedly the largest Protestant Sabbath audience in the United States; and all this in a church not six months old.

"Now let me go back for an instant and tell you of the steps by which we attained to the height of this great prosperity. The first informal gathering towards our permanent church was held October 11, 1865, Rev. E. W. Robinson in the chair, when fifty-six persons agreed to join the new institution. The first question that came up was the name to be given to the little church. Thirteen names were proposed, the Pioneer Church, the Plymouth Church, etc., but the principal controversy lay between the "National Congregational" Church, and the "First Congregational" Church; and the latter finally prevailed, but only by a majority of three. A week or two later church and parish cordially invited Dr. Charles B. Boynton to become their pastor—the third time it had been offered him. He accepted the offer and thus continued in the place held by him since he preached the first sermon before the prospective organization (now our present church), on September 17, 1865, in the Unitarian Church. On November 12, 1865, the members covenanted together and on the fifteenth a council assembled to recognize the church. Twenty churches were invited but only nine came. Good Dr. Joshua Leavitt was appointed moderator and Dr. Joseph P. Thompson preached the sermon. One hundred and four persons stood up before that council to constitute the church, and two weeks later nineteen more joined. Quite a respectable number to start the young church into spiritual life.

“The next council was held in Calvary Baptist Church in October, 1866, to install the new pastor, Rev. Charles B. Boynton, into the pastorate. Rev. J. C. Holbrook was moderator and the sermon was preached by Rev. Samuel Wolcott, and the right hand of fellowship given by Dr. Sunderland, who could now welcome a well-known antislavery minister into a Washington pulpit.

“And then came up the question of a site—where should the society erect a church building? The Methodists offered us the corner of Four and one-half and C Streets, now occupied by the Metropolitan Church, for $25,000. But we wanted a more central location for the only church of our order. For seventy-five years the Van Ness family, the original owners of the western half of Washington, had been selling at city prices the pieces of their old tobacco plantation. All had been sold but one lot, and that lay on the corner of Tenth and G Streets. It was promptly bought by the Congregational Church, but it was months before we could get the deed, because it had to be sent to Rome, Italy, for signature. So that the last piece of land belonging to the original planter family that lived by slave labor was the first piece to be bought by an antislavery Congregational Church, after slavery had been abolished throughout the land.

"We now owned our lot, had an eloquent preacher, a good-sized church, and met in the House of Representatives. But while this remarkable prosperity was attending the outward circumstances of the church, an internal fire was raging that threatened to consume the church and parish. At that time it was called a quarrel; but looking back upon it with the added light of over twenty years, I have made up my mind that it was no quarrel, it was merely a division of sentiment. There were good people on both sides, and people will look at things differently. Still this division of sentiment is undoubtedly the greatest fact in our church history.

"In November, 1867, three colored persons presented themselves for admission to the church. They were accepted by the committee; but before they were officially informed of that fact, Dr. Boynton preached a sermon advising people of color to worship with their own race. At once two of the three withdrew their applications for membership. Dr. Boynton's sermon was printed and severely attacked by every one of our denominational papers. The church proceeded at once to vote that our church doors were open to all, but they would not disown their pastor's sermon.

"A request signed by sixty-four members of the church was now presented, asking that a mutual council be called to settle the difficulties between church and pastor, but the motion was promptly voted down. For many months the battle raged whether a council should be called, where the minority was so large; but it was always decided in the negative by a strictly party vote. Finally the minority called an ex parte council, that staunch defender of sound orthodoxy, Rev. Dr. Alden, later of the American Board, being the principal member.

"The majority finally decided to call a council that should represent the whole church, and they did this for two reasons. Public opinion from without, as represented by all the leading papers of our denomination, was heavily against them; and private opinion from within was steadily changing the majority into a minority. So they called a council by a committee of their own number. The letter missive was so drawn up that all traces of the quarrel were carefully excluded.

"The council met January 13, 1869, composed of the representatives of eleven of the leading churches of the land. Joseph P. Thompson, of the Tabernacle Church of New York, was chosen moderator, and Dr. A. H. Quint, scribe. After a long discussion over the province of the council, it was finally permitted to review the whole case.

"We presented our evidence, marshalled by our leader, William F. Bascom; and the council found for the minority on every point presented, and great was the relief to that minority.

"Not long after the council departed the pastor stated that he could not meet the expenses of the pastorate without a salary of $3,000. The late minority, now become the majority, immediately voted that it could not afford to pay over $1,800 a year. Whercupon Rev. Dr. Boynton tendered his resignation, and it was at once accepted. And a paper was presented, signed by 99 members, or half the church, asking letters of dismissal to found a new church.

"The letters were at once granted and ninety-four resident members were left in this church with an unfinished building on their hands and $60,000<sup>3</sup> of debt on their property; nearly $600 for every man, woman and child in the church. To all outward appearance, there was no hope of its survival. Nor could it have survived, had it not been for the influence and character of General Howard, the financial skill and energy of some of its best members, and the very liberal donations made by many of its members."

GROWTH AND DEVELOPMENT OF THE CHURCH

No time was lost before getting into action. The first important step was taken August 11, 1869, in the election of Dr.

<sup>3</sup> Mr. Hooper's paper puts this figure at $70,000. It is changed here to make an agreement with the Report of the Building Committee, May, 1868, etc.

Jeremiah E. Rankin, of Charlestown, Mass., as pastor. He was well known among Congregationalists of New England as a vigorous preacher and warm-hearted pastor, as well as an ardent friend to that unfortunate race whose position in this church had been the subject of so much controversy.

In spite of discouraging conditions, growth soon began and confidence revived. In fact the recuperative power of the enterprise was shown at the communion immediately following the secession of Dr. Boynton and his associates (two months before the call was extended to Dr. Rankin) when thirty-two new members united with the church. Apparently this was not brought about by any special effort, for fourteen new members joined at the following communion, and the same number at the next.

A policy of finance was adopted, which, though forced by the necessity of raising money to provide for current expenses and the interest on that immense overhanging debt, proved a source of great increase in the number of people who looked upon this place as their religious home. All great religious and philanthropic gatherings were made welcome here. This building was rented for schools, for lectures, for concerts and other entertainments to an extent quite unprecedented among the churches of this community. This policy, though new in Washington, was in accord with the practices that generally obtained among New England Congregationalists of the earlier times. For, be it known, the fathers thought it not unholy to hold elections, militia meetings and business gatherings in their church edifices, and not only so thought, but so did.

If the church adopted this policy as a revenue measure only, "they builded better than they knew." Through its workings very many people became familiar with the place and, through coming here for literary and musical entertainments during the week, were drawn hither on the Sundays. It is something to become wonted to a place, and thousands came to know and love this spot for the hours of aesthetic and intellectual enjoyment they had spent here. Such had a warm side for the religious organization owning the building, and the Congregational Church, through this as one of the leading causes, though not indeed the only one, became confessedly the church "of the people and for the people" to a degree greater than any other in the city.

In 1876 a most remarkable series of meetings was held in this church, conducted by the Rev. E. P. Hammond, an evangelist, assisted by Mr. Bentley, a singer of great effectiveness for such occasions, cooperated with by a large corps of the ministers and laymen of the city. The Washington clergy were divided as to the merits of the meetings, but the pastor of this church gave them his zealous support. For more than a month, nearly every night and parts of many days, our audience room was literally packed with people, the majority of whom seemed to be seeking the way to a better life.

Mr. Hammond was a man of fine physique and hearty, earnest manner. With voice and face well adapted to the expression of both mirth and pathos, he was apt in illustration, dramatic in gesture—not always self-controlled when tempted to enforce a point by exaggerated statement. His power in playing upon the emotions of men was great. By skilfully touching the chord of regret for wrong-doing which vibrates in the heart of every man, and as skilfully catering to the vanity of those who enjoyed being made prominent as cases of striking conversion, he secured, and displayed as his trophies, a miscellaneous company, including all grades, from the sincere, penitent striver for a higher, purer life, on the one hand, down to the empty-headed boaster who revelled in proclamations of his own past vileness and present righteousness. Both these classes of converts were encouraged to present themselves to public view as often and as conspicuously as possible with a perfectly apparent purpose to promote the influence of the meetings by a show of results.

To those who are familiar with the machinery of revivals it will not be necessary to say that Mr. Hammond was helped largely in the inquiry meetings and elsewhere by many earnest and right-minded people who worked for the Master.

The agencies employed were certainly successful in attracting wide attention and stirred this community to such a state of what is commonly considered religious feeling as it had perhaps never known before. In offices, in shops, and on the streets people talked with one another about the concerns of the soul. Many churches were awakened, but the center of these conditions was here.

When, after one of Mr. Hammond's characteristic exhortations, the vast audience would break out into the startling music of "The Judgment day is coming—is coming—IS COMING," accompanied by thunderous peals of the great organ—the suppressed excitement was such that the souls of some and the nerves of all were stirred.

The character of these meetings makes their results an interesting story. Probably not one-half, perhaps less than one-third, of the converts connected themselves with this church, the rest going to other churches of the city. It appears from examination of the records that the number of new members received on profession of faith by this church at the two communions immediately following the close of the meetings was 104.

When, in 1888, by a revision of the roll of church members, out of a total of 821 it was found necessary to drop 107 on account of absenting themselves and not walking with the church, it appears that the seventy-seven Hammond converts then remaining on the rolls furnished twenty-four of the number so dropped. Stated in other terms, 13 per cent of the whole membership and 31 per cent of the Hammond converts were dropped.

This revision of the roll occurred twelve years after these meetings, a sufficient period to fairly test the results, so far as those results are shown in their effects on this church as an organization. Be it understood that no attempt is now being made to measure the effects on the mind, character, conduct or destiny of any. Only the effect of those meetings upon this church as an organization is what is held in view.

RECENT PASTORS AND ASSISTANT PASTORS

At the close of the morning service on Sunday, June 8, 1884, Dr. Rankin read his resignation as pastor of this church. The announcement was certainly unexpected and produced a profound sensation, no reason being given for his apparently hasty action. A committee was promptly selected to obtain a new pastor, with Chas. M. Beardsley as the chairman, assisted by Dr. William W. Patton, Amzi L. Barber, James B. Johnson and Geo. P. Whittlesey. After some months this committee reported formally the name of Rev. Stephen M. Newman, of Ripon, Wis. At a largely attended meeting and after a spirited discussion, the report was adopted, and Dr. Newman was duly called. He entered upon his work on February 13, 1885, and remained with us twenty-one years, or until February 28, 1906, when he resigned on account of enfeebled health.

The church work was carried on for a year or more by Rev. Charles Hall Everest, while a committee consisting of A. N. Skinner, Daniel Fraser, Dr. S. M. Newman, Alvin M. Lothrop, William Lamborn, Dr. Isaac Clark, John Tweedale, Miss Anna W. Fairfield and Mrs. Geo. P. Whittlesey endeavored to find a new pastor. The first report of the committee was rejected by the church, and a general sentiment in favor of Dr. Samuel H. Woodrow, of Springfield, Mass., led the committee to report his name. The call was accepted by Dr. Woodrow and he began his pastorate on May 1, 1907. (See Fig. 17, p. 65.)

FIG. 11.—REV. B. ALFRED DUMM,
SECOND ASSISTANT PASTOR OF THE CHURCH, 1898 TO 1900

On April 1, 1913, Dr. Woodrow resigned to accept a call to Pilgrim Church, St. Louis, Mo. The assistant pastor, Rev. Lewis E. Purdum, carried on the work as acting pastor while the committee appointed for that purpose was endeavoring to secure a successor to Dr. Woodrow. This committee consisted of Dr. Isaac Clark, C. G. Abbot, A. N. Skinner, Wm. Knowles Cooper, H. A. Thrift, Alfred Wood, W. A. Hyde, Mrs. M. H. Sawyer and Miss Flora L. P. Johnson. On November 20, 1913, they reported the name of Dr. Jay T. Stocking, of Newtonville, Mass., who accepted the call and began his labors on February 15, 1914. A year and a half in the strenuous work of the parish showed Dr. Stocking that his strength was not equal to the task, and he resigned to take effect July 23, 1915. (See Fig. 18, p. 77.)

FIG. 12.—REV. SAMUEL R. SWIFT,
THIRD ASSISTANT PASTOR OF THE CHURCH, 1909 TO 1912

A committee composed of Hugh A. Thrift, chairman, Rev. L. B. Platt, Frank W. Carden, A. N. Skinner, Wm. L. Whiting, Elmer V. Griggs, Roger D. Marsden, Mrs. Julia T. Bodfish and Miss Carlie E. Marsh was elected to secure a successor to Dr. Stocking, and up to the present writing has made no report to the church.

During Dr. Newman's pastorate it became evident that the increasing work of our large and scattered parish was becoming too arduous for one man to carry, and the pastor was authorized to obtain an assistant. He selected Rev. M. Ross Fishburn, who filled the position from May, 1892, to November, 1894, very acceptably. He and his charming wife endeared themselves to the entire congregation, and it was with mingled feelings of regret and pride that the church saw him leave us for the pastorate of the Mount Pleasant Congregational Church.

He was followed, four years later, by Rev. B. Alfred Dumm, who served from November, 1898, to November, 1900, and then became pastor of the Congregational Church at Stoneham, Mass.

Rev. Samuel R. Swift, selected by Dr. Woodrow, served us as assistant pastor from June, 1909, until February, 1912, when he was succeeded by Rev. Lewis E. Purdum, who had been pastor of the Park Road Methodist Protestant Church of this city.

In March, 1915, Mr. Purdum was chosen to fill the pulpit of Ingram Memorial Church on Capitol Hill, made vacant by the resignation of Rev. J. W. Frizzell, and Dr. Stocking obtained the services of Rev. Robert W. Coe, who had been pastor of the Methodist Protestant Church at Cherrydale, Va.

Since Dr. Stocking left us, Mr. Coe has been filling the post of acting pastor most acceptably.

PASTORATES

During the pastorate of Dr. Boynton the church was especially distinguished by its zeal in behalf of an oppressed race and a self-sacrificing spirit for the upbuilding of its own organization. It suffered greatly, however, through dissensions among its members as to the very things it had most at heart. Dr. Boynton's pastorate was too brief to result in deep impression on the community.

His ability as a preacher was undeniable and his sincerity unquestioned.

Dr. Rankin also was able, earnest and warm hearted. He led the church in a large work for Washington and for its own consolidation. In membership and in benevolence there was great growth.

Dr. Newman, as a scholarly, philosophic Christian, appealed with great power to the intelligent conscience of his audience. Also his personal charm impressed especially the young. A large number of those now most active and valuable in the work of this church say he was a great force in the formation of their characters; and the earnestness with which they say it is high tribute to his work as pastor and teacher.

To Dr. Woodrow's credit it must be said that after the church became a distinctively down-town church, with all the disadvantages of such, he attracted as large audiences as had ever gathered in our edifice, and in his day the church reached its highest point in money giving, and its membership constantly increased.

The brevity of Dr. Stocking's service forbids any distinct appraisal of the same. His great earnestness and ability as a preacher and the truly catholic spirit of the man won for him a high place in our admiration and regard. When he felt obliged to leave us there was current in the church a great regret that what had been high promise of his usefulness here must remain unfulfilled.

This church has been served by five pastors during its life of fifty years, as follows:

- Dr. Charles B. Boynton, November, 1865—May 1, 1869.
- Dr. Jeremiah E. Rankin, October, 1869—June 8, 1884.
- Dr. Stephen M. Newman, February 13, 1885—February 28, 1906.
- Dr. Samuel H. Woodrow, May 1, 1907—June 9, 1913.
- Dr. Jay T. Stocking, February 15, 1914—July 23, 1915.

Also, from May, 1906, to February, 1907, Rev. C. H. Everest was acting pastor, for the interim between the pastorate of Doctors Newman and Woodrow.

MEMBERSHIP

A complete chronological and numerical list of the members from its organization to the present time, with an alphabetical index thereto, has been prepared for publication in the anniversary souvenir booklet. The following synopsis of the increase in membership is interesting. Total number of members—

At the end of Dr. Boynton's pastorate about.....	200
At the end of Dr. Rankin's pastorate about.....	760
At the end of Dr. Newman's pastorate about.....	991
At the end of Dr. Woodrow's pastorate about.....	1,101
At the end of Dr. Stocking's pastorate about.....	1,147
Total number of members since organization.....	3,101
Total number of members November 14, 1915.....	1,138

The membership is now of greatly varied denominational and geographic origin. A classification along these lines can be made of those who come to us by letter from other churches, but the same cannot be done for those who have joined us on confession of faith.

Geographic Analysis of Membership

In its early years this church received more members from New England than from any other part of our country, though never at any time have a majority of our members come from that section. In this connection we can state, in regard to that part of our membership received by letter from other churches since the organization of this church, that the total has been 1,908, distributed geographically as follows:

From Eastern States.....	767
From Western States.....	534
From Southern States.....	155
From Washington churches.....	423
From foreign countries.....	29
	1,908

Denominational Analysis of Membership

Since 1888, those received by letter have come to us from the following denominational sources:

From Congregational churches.....	613
From Presbyterian churches.....	237
From Methodist churches.....	138
From Baptist churches.....	15
From Christian churches.....	12
From all others.....	23
	1,038

Congregational.....	613
All others.....	423

A clear majority of Congregationalists.

Original Members

Of the 104 original members of this church but two have remained with us during all of these fifty years—Misses Emily E. and Mary L. Robinson, daughters of Rev. Ebenezer W. and Mrs. Sarah B.A. Robinson. Rev. Mr. Robinson was one of the most active and efficient agents in bringing together and organizing the original membership. Rev. Wm. Russell (another original member of this church) in his address at the funeral of Mr. Robinson said—"Brother Robinson was the Father of the First Congregational Church." Mrs. Robinson, through a long life, showed rare saintliness of character and devotion to the church, and we all rejoice that the daughters are still maintaining the family tradition. May their usefulness and honored position among us be continued through a long and happy future.

Mr. Jerome F. Johnson, one of our original members, continued with us until his death in 1913, forty-eight of our fifty years. His several terms of service as clerk of the church, deacon, superintendent of our Sunday school, and in offices of the Society covered a very large part of that period.

Mr. Alfred Wood, now senior deacon, became a member of this church November 29, 1865, just two weeks after its organization. He was dismissed (on removal from this city) November 28, 1866, and renewed his membership with us September 6, 1868. His service as deacon has been longer than that of any other member, dating from 1877, and continuous since then, so far as is permitted by the rules of the church.

Members Eminent for Valuable Service

A church historian is very apt to think the proprieties of his office confine him to a recital of the formal doings of the organization. You will pardon me if I here transgress that rule and enlarge somewhat upon the record of the most notable work for the uplift of the community which has been accomplished by individual members of this church.

First and foremost—General Oliver O. Howard, one of the most famous military leaders in the Civil War. He was the greatest power in securing money for the erection of our church edifice; most active philanthropist in many directions. Howard University owes its existence to him, and is his monument. The Freedman's Bank was organized by him, and while its history was most unfortunate it was wisely conceived and failed through no fault of Howard. He was a very large factor in building up the Y. M. C. A. of that day, and an exceedingly valuable helper of the American Missionary Association. This man had a passion for doing good. Referring to his labors in securing funds from rich men he once said—"I care not how they treat me. They may wipe their feet on me if they will only contribute freely to these benevolences."

General Eliphalet Whittlesey. A valued coadjutor of General Howard in the Freedman's Bureau and Howard University; also for many years the efficient Secretary of the Board of Indian Commissioners. A man of noble benignity, dignified bearing and venerable aspect, who served in this church as deacon, and president of the Ecclesiastical Society. When a wise counsellor was needed all eyes turned to him.

William R. Hooper. Long treasurer of the Society. His correspondence in the Congregationalist for many years kept the denomination informed as to the condition of its interests in Washington. On his death Mrs. Lily Camp Whittlesey succeeded him as a most admirable Washington correspondent of the Congregationalist, until ill-health obliged her to abandon the work in 1913. This lady was one of our most active and devoted members.

James B. Johnson. No one surpassed him for active, vigilant care of the interests of this church, which he served in various important offices. He was a most efficient superintendent of the Lincoln Mission Sunday School at Eleventh and R Streets. This school, with a frequent attendance of 1,000, was, in Mr. Johnson's day, one of the greatest powers for good in Washington. Located in what was called "Hell's Bottom," it did more than any other one instrumentality to change a rude, disorderly and vicious neighborhood into one of quiet, decent, respectable homes. The police authorities recognized such fact, as also did the better part of the people resident there. In this work Mr. Johnson bore a large share. The corps of workers assisting him was almost wholly recruited from our church. This mission later developed as Lincoln Temple Congregational Church.

If the First Congregational Church had never done anything else for Washington, it would deserve the lasting gratitude of this city for Lincoln Mission and its results. It gives me great pleasure to record these words in honor of James B. Johnson. An almost equal degree of credit should be awarded the large number of Mr. Johnson's associates in the work. The list of these is too long to enumerate. During the same period another Mission School for colored children was conducted in our church building, Sunday afternoons. While the influence of this school was less impressive, because of the fact that its attendance was drawn from a neighborhood less rough and vicious than "Hell's Bottom," it did good and lasting work for the unfortunate race.

David J. Brewer. His exacting duties as a Justice of the United States Supreme Court and great activities as a public speaker in behalf of civic righteousness, did not prevent him from conducting a class in our Sunday school for many years, and also serving as president of the Washington Associated Charities. Justice Brewer, while fully appreciating his exalted judicial station, never repressed a natural inclination to make his humbler friends happy by all sorts of personal attentions and services. He was also one of our most notable givers for support of church and missions and local charities. A man whose mental breadth was equalled only by the wide kindness of his heart.

SOME FINANCIAL FACTS

Cost of Site and Building

Early in 1866 the Congregational Union advanced $13,550 for the purchase of four lots in square 375, lots 12, 13, 14 and 15, measuring 90 feet 4 inches on Tenth Street and 100 feet on G Street. Later in the same year the First Congregational Society purchased three more lots, viz: lots 16, 17 and 18, for about $3,387. The total dimensions are 158 feet by 100 feet. The total cost was about $16,937. In March and April, 1866, the Building Committee received plans from two architects, Grant and Scarle.

The plan of the latter was adopted and resulted in the structure which, with slight modifications, we now have. While building was in progress, on July 2, 1867, at 3 a. m., a tornado blew down the west wall of the church. The restoration cost about $3,000. The building was first occupied May 5, 1868.

When the church was built, G Street was on the level of the top of the terrace and the side walk was near the church wall. The change in grade was made about 1873.

The church vestibule originally occupied the entire G Street front with one entrance on the G Street front of the alley tower, and a second entrance on the Tenth Street front of the Tenth Street corner tower. The pastor's study was first partitioned off, and soon after the church office was created in a similar way. At the same time a doorway was cut into the West Parlor and the entrances above noted were converted into large windows. These changes were made about 1890. At a later date the ash and plate glass partition was installed, separating the outer and the inner vestibules. At a still later date the doors covered with enameled cloth, opening into the Audience Room, were replaced with ash doors with glass panels. Galleries were built in the Sunday school room in 1912.

An audited report of the Building Committee shows as follows:

This is apparently the high water mark of the debt. All the figures above given are only approximate as the data are collected from different places.

Debt

The enormous debt was evidently handled very energetically, for in September, 1874, the Society authorized the consolidation of all unsatisfied liabilities incurred in building in a bonded lien on the real estate of $30,000 at 8 per cent interest, maturing in ten years. Apparently over $30,000 of the debt was paid between May, 1868, and September, 1874.

On the maturity of the bonds in 1884, the outstanding bonds were extended at 6 per cent interest.

At a later date the interest on the remaining outstanding bonds was further reduced to 5 per cent which continued until March 13, 1903, during Dr. Newman's pastorate, when the last bond was paid and cancelled.

It is of interest to note some sources from which aid was derived to meet the cost of building. The largest contributor was General O. O. Howard, who pledged $10,000 and paid it all from his own funds in three years. Later he gave another large sum, certainly $1,000, probably more. He also obtained by personal solicitation several thousand dollars from rich men in various parts of the country. Some of these givers were as follows: Senator Pomeroy of Kansas, $1,000; Hon. Wm. E. Dodge, $700; Fisk & Hatch, Governor Sprague of Rhode Island, C. D. Wood, Vermilye & Co., Jas. Brown, A. C. Barstow, Geo. H. Corliss, J. Field, E. S. Tobey, Frederick Jones and E. Farnsworth, $500 each; A. T.

Stewart and A. A. Low & Brother, $250 each; Wm. E. Dodge, Jr., $200; Alexander R. Shepherd, Moses Kelley and others, each $100.

Among the contributors not so wealthy were Henry Ward Beecher, $250, Lyman Abbott, $50, and James G. Blaine, $300. The latter was a regular attendant here during most of his Congressional service.

There were hundreds of small, individual contributors; also 158 churches gave from $5 to $40 each, and 152 Sunday schools similar amounts. Nine-tenths of these were in New England. Our own members and their Washington friends gave most generously to this building fund, several of them more than a $1,000 each, and many givers in the hundreds. The list of these is too long to be recited here and the mention of a few only would be an injustice to others where all did so nobly. It was only by the exercise of a general spirit of self-sacrifice that the great debt was paid.

Contributions

The help received by this church in its very early days has been since offset by similar assistance rendered by this church to other young churches of our denomination in Washington and vicinity, notably to the Ingram Memorial Church in the purchase of its building site and in part payment of its current expenses; also to the People's Congregational Church.

The Mount Pleasant Church proved a strong and capable child, asking no financial help, but it was greatly benefited by drawing to its pastorate Rev. M. Ross Fishburn, the assistant pastor of this church under Dr. Newman. Mr. Fishburn proved a remarkable up-builder of that church, which during his labors experienced the greatest growth in its history.

Our church has proved a good giver to the benevolences of the denomination and the community, as well as for its own maintenance. For the period of its first twenty-five years the records do not disclose a complete statement, but during the twenty-five years closing at this date we have given—

SOME ORGANIZATIONS AND ACTIVITIES OF THE CHURCH

The Choir

The musical service of this church has long been of special interest, and unusually elevating in character.

The large chorus and the fine organ accompaniment have proven a great support to the preachers' efforts, as has been acknowledged by all who have occupied our pulpit.

Great credit is due to Dr. John W. Bischoff, Musical Director and Organist from October, 1875, until his death May 30, 1909. Afflicted with total blindness from his very early years, such was the genius of this man that he brought delight and uplift to the cultured and to the uncultured ear.

As a composer and as a performer he was equally gifted. Both with the public and with his profession he stood the equal of anyone who ever moved in the musical circles of Washington.

The personal character of this remarkable man is shown in the fact that during his thirty-four years of service not once was there evidence of ill-feeling in the choir. His genial and gentle influence was potent with all of its members. They loved him, as did thousands of his friends in the church and community. Over his grave is an appropriate monument given in appreciation of his talents and his worth. A fuller appreciation of Dr. Bischoff and his service to the church will be given in another paper during these anniversary exercises.

Young People's Societies

Early in the eighties a number of the younger members of the congregation organized a "Young People's Union" for the purpose of developing closer acquaintance and good fellowship. This society flourished for several years, until the rising sentiment in favor of the Christian Endeavor Society caused its merger in that world-wide movement. The most notable work of this "Young People's Union" was a lively campaign to reduce the church debt, which, by two years of enthusiastic work, was cut from $22,000 to a little over $10,000.

It may be remarked here that Mr. William H. Pennell, the well-known "First Christian Endeavorer," was a member of this church for some years.

The Soldiers' Union

An organization of Civil War veterans called the "Soldiers' Union of the First Congregational Church" was in existence for many years, formally disbanding only a few months ago. The church cherishes the memory of its members who served the Union cause and have now passed on to the great beyond. It also values the members of this organization who are yet with us. In the church parlor have been placed pictures of most or all of the members, framed in one group.

Missions

This church has always been deeply interested in the spread of the gospel not only in our city and land, but in foreign countries. General Whittlesey, Dr. Patton and Justice Brewer were corporate members of the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions, as is also at this time Dr. Merrill E. Gates, of our present membership. Well-conducted societies for the study of missions and the raising of money and supplies for missionary work have flourished for many years among the women of this church. One of these, the Mission Club, was organized at the time that one of our members, Miss Frances Hooper, a daughter of William R. Hooper, went to Japan as a missionary of the American Board, some thirty-two years ago. Miss Hooper married Rev. Jerome D. Davis, since deceased, and still lives and works in the land of her adoption. Mrs. Burrill (Miss Frances Catlin) is another member, who for years has done missionary work in China.

Rev. L. S. Gates, of India, whose name appears on our church bulletin as our foreign missionary, married the sister of Prof. Henry A. Hazen, who was for years a faithful and well-beloved member of our church, and a superintendent of its Sunday school.

Wynn Cowan Fairfield, son of Prof. and Mrs. F. W. Fairfield, and himself once a member of this church, went to China in 1910 as the missionary representative of the Mt. Pleasant Church, under the American Board. He is located at Taikuhsien, in the Shansi District.

Howard University

The relations between this church and Howard University have always been close and sympathetic. Two of our pastors, Doctors Rankin and Newman, after leaving the pastorate, have served as president of the University. Another president of the University, Dr. Wm. W. Patton, was an active and valued member of our church during all of such presidency. Also many members of the faculty of the University have rendered great service in our church, notably Professors George J. Cummings, Isaac Clark and Frederick W. Fairfield.

REMARKABLE INCIDENTS

Among the notable events that have occurred in our church is that of the gathering of authors in 1889, to take action in behalf of the enactment of an international copyright law. It was desired to raise a fund to be used in a campaign of education for rousing the people to demand such a law. For the raising of such fund it was advertised that a large number of the most prominent American authors would give readings and recitations from their own works. Great audiences gathered here both in afternoon and evening, and the admission fees produced a considerable fund for the object sought. The historian Bancroft (a venerable figure) presided. Mark Twain and James Whitcomb Riley recited their humorous pieces. Frank R. Stockton and Edw. Eggleston read passages from their respective books, as did also Thos. Nelson Page, Chas. Dudley Warner, Wm. D. Howells, Richard H. Stoddard, and Jas. T. Field.

Probably no such number of American literary celebrities ever appeared on one platform at any other time, for the entertainment of the public.

The generous appreciation of each other manifested by these kindred spirits was especially fine. Riley was at that time rather new to the public, while Mark Twain was an old favorite. When Riley, with his most laughable mimicry, recited "The Color of the Peanut," Twain roared his delight, and leaving his chair, pranced across the stage and slapped Riley on the back in a perfect ecstasy of enjoyment. Twain's manner of doing this tickled the audience as keenly as did the fun of his and Riley's recitations.

Our audience room was the scene of the last public appearance of President Garfield, when he presented the diplomas to the Washington Normal School graduates, class of 1881, on Thursday, June 16.

It was on the steps of our church that James G. Blaine fell, because of a sun stroke, on a Sunday morning in June, 1876, during the session of the Republican National Convention, before which he was a candidate for the presidency. He was carried home from the church insensible. This event bore its part in bringing about the nomination of President Hayes by that convention.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

Twenty-five years ago this church celebrated with great spirit its twenty-fifth anniversary. Its then pastor, Rev. S. M. Newman (now president of Howard University), preached a sermon in which he referred to the abundant heritage into which this church had entered. The Reformation, the Puritan settlement of New England, the early missionary efforts in Vermont and New York State, with many other heroic struggles, all prepared the hearts of the founders of this church for the steps they took.

The preacher proceeded—"What a beautiful thought this is. How inspiring to think that we are not just ourselves, but that we sum up the ages, and embody in ourselves all previous achievement. What a delight to feel that we are the product of that former struggle and conflict, that in the fires which burned on those previous altars were wrought our faith and resolution, and our accomplishment today. How delightful to feel that as we come here we have a hand in helping to make these things more bright and enduring before we pass them over to our successors. It is in that spirit that we should live and think and breathe today. Every saint in the world from Abraham up to the present moment is in us, and perpetuates himself in us. Our twenty-five years become a cycle of ages and the church becomes an embodiment of history."

Those words of Dr. Newman are reproduced here because their utterance was a notable event worthy of record in the church's history.

On the same occasion Justice Brewer, of the United States Supreme Court, who had united with this church on the next preceding Sunday, made a most felicitous address in which he alluded to the struggles of the church he had just left, at Leavenworth, Kans. Its early history, of opposition and prejudice overcome, and later prosperity achieved, was similar to our own, and the Justice joined us in gratulations over these results.

DR. JOHN W. BISCHOFF

Dr. J. W. Bischoff, A.G.O., who served the First Congregational Church of Washington, D. C., for thirty-five years as organist and choir-director, must be counted among the eminent musicians of America. This will appear even in a brief survey of his life and work. He was born in 1849 and lost his sight at about 2 years of age as a result of measles. His aptitude for music showed itself in youth and when he came to the First Congregational Church, at 25 years of age, he was an accomplished organist. He showed at once his mastery of the largest and finest instrument in this part of the country, then recently installed in the church edifice. From that time until his death in 1909 he gave an uninterrupted service of matchless character.

There are several aspects of his work which need mention in any estimate of his genius.

1. Upon coming to the city he began teaching organ, piano and voice, and his studio was crowded with pupils all his life. Perhaps his greatest work was in teaching voice, for it became known in time that pupils trained by him had no defects to be overcome in taking later training under the finest foreign masters. He developed a large number of pupils into singers of great usefulness in church and concert work not only in Washington but elsewhere. In this way his teaching had great effect in establishing new musical standards of the very highest character, at a time when Washington had no powerful leadership, other than his own, to bring out and unify the musical ability of the community.

2. As choir-director he was unexcelled. He never suffered inferior music to find its way into the services of the church. The repertoire of the choir was drawn from the greatest church music of the world. The oratorios and other great forms of sacred themes were constantly rendered by the choir with unfailing skill under his direction. In doing this he subjected the members of his choir to the most rigid and exacting drill. His ideal of excellence was a lofty one. His choir was noted for the fine precision of all its work.

But Dr. Bischoff never mistook the place of church music and a choir in a church service. He said again and again to his pastor, "The highest aim of a church service is spiritual. You are here to secure spiritual results. I am here simply to help you do this work." His whole nature entered into this effort without reserve. He was constantly trying to plan how he could help to secure by music the spiritual aim of worship. His wonderful playing of church music came to be unfailing because all his sympathies as a man reinforced his great genius as a musician. People from all over the country came to the church to hear this unrivalled interpreter of divine thoughts upon the organ, and to listen to the choir which he had created by his ceaseless skill in directing it.

FIG. 15.—DR. JOHN W. BISCHOFF, A.G.O.
ORGANIST AND DIRECTOR OF THE CHOIR, 1875 TO 1909

It should here be stated that by his work with the choir and by his control of numerous singers whom he was training, he was enabled to institute and carry out for many years an annual series of Bischoff concerts, which became marked musical privileges for the people of the city. He showed great executive ability in planning and carrying out these successful concerts.

Dr. Bischoff was always ready to help the church in its entertainments and social occasions by introducing musical numbers. He was generous in contributing to any event which it was thought music could benefit.

3. Perhaps in nothing did the genius of Dr. Bischoff appear more fully than in the peculiar character of his work in accompaniment. In this he was never rivalled. He never played the organ or piano in such an exercise as if his instrumental part were the chief feature of the song which was being sung. He never overwhelmed the singer when listeners wished to hear the voice, as many accompanists do. He kept the instrument in the background. He created by it an atmosphere in which the voice floated and hung. He shed a light about the song which gave a radiance to many a weak performance.

He never tried to force the singer by his accompaniment into some interpretation of a song which was strange to the singer's mind. He always respected the personality of a singer and knew intuitively how to merge his own personality into that of the singer and thus help the latter to a greater freedom and success than could otherwise be reached. Many a singer has been charmed and lifted by him into an interpretation never possible with most accompanists. It seemed as if he could divine at the instant what the chief effect of the song was upon the singer's spirit and bent all his own genius to the happy task of helping to make the singer more truly original and creative, instead of cramping and bending the singer to his own interpretation, however superior that may have been. This made his accompaniments a great delight to singers who had become highly trained and had personal interpretations which they wished to give to the songs they sang. His intuition in this work of accompanying was wonderful, but that he could willingly subject his own great ideas to the singer and thereby make the latter's work more original, is more wonderful still. This, more than anything else, shows the musical temperament and gifts as well as the spirit of the man.

It should be mentioned that in this work of accompanying he seemed to divine by an inner vision the singer's mental condition, whether one of composure or agitation. If the latter condition threatened to impair a performance, then he used all his resources to hold up and encourage the singer. It was difficult to break down when carried along by the compelling power of his assistance. His accompaniment at times prevented disaster. Few in an audience knew when these critical moments occurred because his delicate manipulation made them invisible. He was a master of indescribable skill in the art of accompaniment.

4. We can readily understand that Dr. Bischoff was proud of his ability to enter into the work of the world in his chosen profession and make his way successfully under the handicap of total blindness. He took a deep and sympathetic interest in the rise of modern efforts to train the blind to forms of occupation which would afford self-support. He felt that it was a distinct loss to the world to pauperize the blind by assuming that they can do nothing except beg upon the streets or lie about in a charitable institution. He thought that the blind should be treated as people who can do things, and that the community should set about the task of finding things for them to do and fitting them to do such things, just as our young people are fitted by the community, in manual training, business and other vocational schools, for entrance into life.

Dr. Bischoff resented any tendency to treat him as an imperfect man physically. He wished to be spoken to as all other men are spoken to. Occasionally some person, lacking in tact, would say, "Doctor, has somebody read you this item in the morning paper?" Such a definite reference to his infirmity always pained him to the depths of his soul. He refused to be pitied, and any evidence of that feeling in others cut him to the quick.

It was very seldom that any reference to his infirmity fell from his own lips. But occasionally he spoke of it indirectly among friends in a very effective way. Once in a men's Bible class it was noticed that he could more quickly and accurately quote the Old Testament than any other member of the class. Finally one of the members said, "Doctor, how is it that you know the Bible so well?" This was a question which might be put to any well-trained Bible student. "Well," said Dr. Bischoff, "you would know it as well as I if you had read it through repeatedly by the tips of your fingers." He was a well trained man in general literature and in public affairs. Indeed, he could hold his own among men anywhere in discussing and commenting upon anything which came up in general conversation.

Dr. Bischoff was an exceedingly serene man. His infirmity had made it necessary for him to be careful and well-poised in his movements, for he rejected constant assistance by the hand or arm of another in getting about a room or building. Before Washington came to be thronged upon its streets he would go out by himself. He was never led to the organ at the beginning of church worship, but went through the aisle, up the winding steps, and round to the front of the organ with perfect ease, and never made a mistake in the direction or the number of the steps. His slow and steady step in which there was no evidence that he was feeling his way, his perfectly straight and dignified bearing, his upright head and smiling countenance always helped give character to the beginning of the service. Indeed, the smile which he habitually wore largely obscured the loss of eyes in his countenance.

He was a companionable man. He loved his friends and wanted them around him. Many of the inner circle became devotedly attached to him and many others in a wider circle were always glad to be in his company. He was always cheerful. Toward the end of his life attacks of cold affected his hearing temporarily, and he suffered from depression at times for fear that his hearing would be permanently impaired. But he never suffered such things to overcome him and throw him off his balance as a man. He had a distinctly victorious and conquering spirit. His life was trained in the school of adversity. He often did his work when suffering from ills to which many men would have succumbed. He never knew what it was to have a cowardly feeling. This made companionship with him a tonic to his friends. It was like moving in a crisp, bracing atmosphere to sit with him for a while. He wrought this effect not by an effort, because he was always perfectly composed in his bearing, but by what he had become in the struggle of life and in the hard work of his profession, a brave and fearless spirit. His friends all knew him as a genuine man, and loved him for his manly qualities.

Dr. Bischoff had great reverence for sacred things. There was nothing pietistic or sanctimonious in his nature, but he was a truly devout Christian man. He loved the communion service and was delighted when he found that he could make a contribution to it by playing the organ softly during the administration of the bread and the cup. While some did not like it, his playing was continued because it gave him such great satisfaction to be a vital part of the service.

In drilling the choir he could always tell whether any new members were sitting upright during the rendition of the chanted Lord's Prayer. "Bow your heads, bow your heads," he would say, "this is a prayer and you should take the attitude of prayer." He startled many a new comer by his detection of attitude and demeanor.

It can readily be seen that Dr. Bischoff's life was uneventful so far as unusual experiences are concerned. He was sent for at times to open a new church organ or give a concert elsewhere, but he did not permit himself to do much of that kind of thing. At one time he had a serious question to consider in an offer of a position elsewhere which would bring him more money, but he decided to stay with his old friends in a place and work in which he had been very happy. Dr. Bischoff was the type of a great man not easily recognized by outsiders because such greatness does not exploit and applaud itself at all. All who heard him play knew him as master of an organ or piano, but few knew the greatness of the man because his spirit was so simple and unobtrusive. He applied himself faithfully to his professional and church work, and never swerved from the utmost exactation upon himself in the doing of his duty. In this he was not wayward or shifting, but eternally vigilant.

Dr. Bischoff became widely known as a composer. His gift was a distinctly lyrical one, and he always succeeded in the melody by which a musical conception was best rendered. The elements of lyrical work found in rhythm and its companion qualities were at his perfect command. This lyric gift was evident in the playing of the organ as accompaniment for the singing of the best of the gospel melodies by great audiences in illustrated services. In all such singing he made the organ sing the melody so that all voices in the house joined in singing from the screen with an effect which was irresistibly spiritual. Occasionally when a substitute had to play, the whole service was marred by the playing of all parts of the music with equal prominence, thus obscuring the melody and making it impossible for an audience to sing successfully in the dark. Dr. Bischoff's lyric interpretation was never at fault by any such blunder.

It is probably true that this quality of his spirit gave his organ playing such a magnetic appeal. His executive technic was adequate upon all occasions, but the hearer lost thought of it as the playing wound its way through his heart and mind with a compelling charm. People who listened to him appreciatively for many years always speak of this aspect of his work.

When it is remembered that Dr. Bischoff could see no score of hymns and anthems, and that his work was a large one in every church service, it is remarkable that he never made a mistake in the order of the music to be rendered. It is more amazing still when we think of the great number of choral services and concerts which he conducted. Still the wonder grows when we think that he could play many of the oratorios, such as the Messiah, without faltering or mistakes. He was a great musical genius. His preeminent ability, used without reserve for the First Congregational Church for more than two-thirds of its life, had a large part to do through its early years in bringing it into prominence, and always helped to hold up the service of the church to the community to a very high level. He was also a true man. As musician and man he is worthy of definite remembrance in this semi-centennial, and it would be a fitting recognition of him if a tablet in his memory could be placed somewhere upon the wall of the auditorium.

MEMORIES

[Lines written on the occasion of the Fiftieth Anniversary of the First Congregational Church.]

You call me back, you friends who are so dear,
And I, though far away, draw very near.
The miles between seem blotted out. Once more
Your faces, strangely vivid, rise before
My wistful thought. I see you, smiling, sweet,
As long ago, when we were fain to meet
And speak together at the sermon's end.
"And is it well with you today, dear friend?"
We'd ask each other, hands clasped warm and tight.
"So beautiful the morning is!—so bright!
How wonderful the message was today.
And oh, how past all marvelling, the way
He makes the organ sing—our sightless one."
Thus we were wont to speak and linger, none
Went out the old church doors uncheered or sad.
We clasped each others fingers, and were glad.

And now, for these four memory-days, you bid
Me take my place among you, as I did
Through all those joyous years. And I reply,
"Yes, I am with you, as in days gone by."
At the communion feast I bow my head.
Hands strangely dear divide the wine and bread.
A voice I love so well speaks low and sweet:
"In Jesus' name I give it. Take and eat!"
Yes, I am with you all these memory-days.
We surely cannot go divided ways
Who were so near together those long years,
Sharing our griefs and gladness, smiles and tears.
So sweet the crowding memories are! And yet
We call them back—and lo, our eyes are wet!
From out the mist of years we see today
The faces of the loved who could not stay!
Yes, we are blind with tears. God understands,
And surely from the House not made with hands
He lets them smile upon us, those whom we Have loved so well and now no longer see!

"THE UNCHANGING CHURCH"

BY REV. JAY T. STOCKING, D.D.

Anniversary Sermon at the Fiftieth Anniversary of the Congregational Church, Sunday Morning, November 14, 1915

We have just been singing:

"Oh, where are kings and empires now,
Of old that went and came?
But, Lord, Thy Church is praying yet,
A thousand years the same."

"A thousand years the same!" That is a most astonishing statement. It is one of those statements that would be interesting if true. But it cannot possibly be true. Nothing that lives can remain unchanged for any length of time. Existence is change. It would be enough to condemn anything that lived to say that it had remained for a thousand years the same. And this would be especially true of the last one thousand years, which have been as changing as the face of the boiling deep. We are living in a very different world from what the people lived in at the time of Charlemagne and Alfred the Great. Old things have passed away and all things become new. The old Ptolemaic heaven and the old, little, flat earth of one hemisphere have passed away. We have a new heaven and a new earth. And the church, as the price of her life, indeed, as the very sign of her life, has changed, too. She has changed her thinking, she has changed her forms of work, she has changed her ceremonies and her phraseology, and from time to time she has changed the emphasis of her message and her appeal. So I repudiate the statement so sonorously sung, "But, Lord, Thy church is praying yet, a thousand years the same."

And yet I would call back that statement before it flies too far from my lips, to amend it in a certain very important respect. May it not be true that the church in certain respects has remained a thousand years the same? Is it not quite possible that the respects in which the church has changed are not so significant as the respects in which the church has not changed? If "Thou hast been our dwelling place in all generations . . . from everlasting to everlasting thou art God;" if Jesus Christ be "the same yesterday and today and forever;" if it be true that men change but man remains ever the same, then it is quite possible, in the message which the church is seeking to give from the unchanging God and the unchanging Christ to the unchanging needs of man, that the church should remain a thousand years the same. Her forms have changed; her mission has not changed. Her ceremonies, her vocabulary, her emphasis, have been changing; her message has been unchanging. And that message I find in the 11th verse of the 4th chapter of First John: "Beloved, if God so loved us, we ought also to love one another." That is the message of the church, in two parts.

God loves you—That is the first part. That is the message which the angels sang. That is the glad tidings which Jesus spoke to the multitude that wondered at His gracious words. That is the revelation of the heart of the God which Jesus so lovingly unfolded. That is the "old gospel" which has comforted men in their sorrow, won them from their transgressions and given them their creed of hope. I believe in the forgiveness of sin. It is the "new gospel" which is the heart of democracy, and the hope of the lowly.

God loves you. That is the warm message which gushed from the heart of Jesus through the frozen Pharaseeism of His time. That is the message which John in this letter gave to the world. That is the message which Paul spoke to hearts burdened with the weight of superstition. That is the message with which Chrysostom fed the throngs that gathered about the feet of this man of "the golden mouth." That is the message of Augustine, the man of the burning heart, who ruled the church for a thousand years. That is the message of Savonarola to the people of Florence as he preached of "the great God and His rich mercy." That God loves everyone, potentate and priest and peasant, and peasant as much as priest and potentate, was the message with which Huss and Knox and Luther and Calvin shook the church into newness of life and awoke the world to newness of faith and hope. That has been the message which devoted men and women who have gone out from our churches to foreign fields—and so many of them have gone out from this church—have been speaking to their brothers and sisters in the ends of the earth.

God loves you. That is the message which the church is called upon to speak, is seeking to speak, today. But it is a message which has fallen upon questioning ears. There are millions of people in our country today who are not finding it easy to believe in the love of God. One reason for this is that they find it so difficult to believe in a God who is real and personal enough to love at all. The reign of law has oppressed people; it has seemed to leave no room for God at all. To be sure, the scientist has spoken of "Cosmic Ether" and a "Great Creative Energy." The Ethical Culturist speaks of an Infinite Humanity and spells it with capital letters. But who could unburden his heart to Cosmic Ether? Who could pray, "Oh, Great Creative Energy, hallowed be thy name?" Who could cry out to Infinite Humanity: "Lead us not into temptation but deliver us from evil?" Men in their loneliness and loss have wandered through the dark corridors of the world, bewailing their loss: "They have taken away my Lord and I know not where they have laid Him."

Then the vastness of the world, as revealed to us by the telescope, has been bewildering. In vast and boundless abysses men without imagination have lost their God. In consternation they cry out with Job: "Oh, that I knew where I might find Him." Or if, gifted with imagination, they behold Him striding through the heavens, using the stars for stepping-stones. He seems too grand, magnificent and far away, to be "touched with a feeling of our infirmities." The Psalmist as he looked up into the un-smoked skies over Palestine saw 6,000 stars. Today when one looks up into our skies he sees 10,000 times 10,000 stars. Little wonder that he reflects: "What is man that Thou art mindful of him? and the son of man that Thou visitest him?"

Then again, this year 1915 has furnished peculiar difficulties. The existence of wrong in the world has always put obstacles in the way of an easy belief in a God who cares. Job's wrestling was the wrestling of humanity. But this brutal and lustful war, which has sickened the very earth with smell and taste of blood, has struck faith a blow which has sent it reeling. Yet this is a faith which the world needs profoundly.

Yes, the message of the love of God has fallen upon hard times today. But it has fallen upon desperately needy times. The very confessions of people have betrayed the depth of their need and their longing. The call of the Christian Church is just what it ever has been, to preach the unchanging message of the love of God. And she is called not merely to preach it but to interpret it. There must be a new and vital apologetic. No recent book has been of more significance and help along this line than that little book of Dr. Fosdick's, "The Meaning of Prayer." It has helped a multitude of people to see that without turning their backs on science they may turn their faces toward the God of Jesus. It has been helping people to see that the greatest living, creative force of the world is the personal spirit.

FIG. 18.—REV. JAY T. STOCKING, D.D.
FIFTH PASTOR OF THE CHURCH, 1914 TO 1915

This is a world of law. The planets move, the snow flakes crystallize, the elements combine with mathematical precision. But this does not deny the freedom of the spirit of man; it makes freedom possible. It is an inviolate law that water shall flow down hill. Man does not stand aghast and helpless before that law, but by that very law he is making water flow up hill to his pleasure and not one jot or one tittle of the law of gravitation has passed away or shall pass away till all shall be fulfilled. It is an inviolate law of the world that metal shall not float upon water or ascend into the air. Yet by that law man is every day sending tons of steel floating across the sea and causing tons of metal to soar over the battlefields of Flanders. The greatest creative force in the world is the spirit of man. Shall the spirit of man be so free and the spirit of God be bound? Laws are not restrictions imposed on God, but a name that we give to the ways in which God's free spirit expresses itself. There is still a place in the world for the Providence of God.

Man is certainly but a tiny particle of dust in this vast universe. But science brings to our attention the fact that God cares for the little things as well as for the great. A little girl asked me this conundrum the other evening: "What has a head but cannot think? Give it up? A pin." Yet we are told that the ceaseless activity within the head of a pin is as great as the activity in the head of the restless child that propounds the conundrum. The electrons, which no man can count, are moving around, each in its own place, with the same majesty and beauty and mathematical precision which marks the planets in their orbits. Science is helping us to believe in a God who cares for little things. It is a scientific truth that "not a sparrow falleth to the ground without your Father" and that "the very hairs of your head are all numbered." But value is not a matter of size or avoirdupois. The diamond upon your finger is more valuable than the boulder in the back yard of your country home. The little child that looks up at you from the cradle is more valuable than all the gold of Cripple Creek or all the diamonds of Kimberly. Material things are not the biggest things in the world. Have you ever seen anything so high as the dreams of unspoiled youth? Have you ever seen anything so unbreakable as the will of man? Have you ever seen anything so unquenchable as the fire of the spirit? Have you ever seen anything so big as a big soul? The humble shepherd on whom 100,000,000 stars look down has a majesty which it were vain even for the stars to covet. "For thou hast made him a little lower than the angels and hast crowned him with glory and honor."

If the events of 1915 have staggered us, yet there is help which comes out of these events. Why have they shocked us? Why are we shuddering today at this shedding of blood as men did not do in the days when Israel fought the Philistines, or Ehud jabbed his sword into the side of Eglon? If "the spirit of man is the candle of the Lord" do not these flames of our indignation cast a little light upon the question whether God is concerned about this slaughter of the innocents and the moans of the dying? Verily, "Thou art a God that hideth Thyself," yet again Thou art a God whose face we see by the light of this flickering candle of the soul of man. If it is worth while for the weaver to sit at his long weaving, then there must be a web in the loom; and if the weaving justifies all the toil and pain and agony of the world, then there must be a beautiful pattern in the web; and if the pattern in the web be the good of the souls of men, then the name of the weaver is love. The horror of war, nor the reign of law, nor the majesty of the universe, nor height, nor depth, nor life, nor death, nor any other phenomenon need separate us, can separate us, from the love of God which is in Jesus Christ our Lord.

God loves you. That is the first part of this unchanging message of the Christian Church.

And the second part of that message is inseparable from the first, "Beloved, if God so loved us, we ought also to love one another." At first it may seem that this reasoning ought to run, "Beloved, if God so loved us, we ought also to love Him." But that is the way the reasoning does run. John goes on to say that if a man loves his brother he loves God. Notice the originality of that statement. John does not say that if a man loves his brother he thereby shows his love for God; he says if a man loves his brother in that very act he loves God.

We ought also to love one another. That is the second part of this unchanging message of the Christian church. This message is then not merely a proclamation but a platform, not merely a comforting truth but an imperative ethic, not merely for consolation but for conscience. With the exception of two or three short paragraphs, what comfort will one of average spiritual attainments find in the Sermon on the Mount? One will find rebuke, not comfort. The Sermon on the Mount is a sermon on duty. Jesus did not give us a code of new laws but He gave us one command which is bound in time to change all law. "A new commandment I give unto you, that ye love one another." Jesus did not give us any statutes for social conduct, but He said, "Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself." He left no laws regulating big business, but He said, "Whatsoever ye would that men should do unto you, do ye even so unto them." He did not say a word about democracy, He did not use the term, but He said, "Know ye not that one is your Master, even Christ, and all ye are brethren?" He did not attempt to legislate reforms in the penal code, but He said, "Blessed are the merciful;" "Let him that is without sin among you cast the first stone." He did not say a word about national defense and preparedness, but He said, "Blessed are the peace-makers." Love was to be the great dynamic, the great force which was to change the world.

There is not a problem that arises out of the relations of men to each other that could not be solved if men loved each other. And there is not a problem which grows out of the relations of men to each other that ever will be solved and stay solved until men do love each other. Congress and legislatures may enact every law in their power, but they will not bring democracy unless men care for the welfare of their brothers. Army and navy leagues may put into execution every program for defense they can conjure up; you may have every meeting in the name of arbitration and conciliation that those who put their trust in reason can assemble, but there will never be peace among nations until there is a love for humanity which transcends all national boundaries, and a new conception of patriotism which shall be more than local pride.

Love is the great solution of the ills of society. Love is the code by which one speaks across the chasm to his brother. Love is the bridge by which these cruel chasms that separate men are covered. Love is the golden chain which binds the family together. Love is the foundation upon which community life and government rest. The church has not been preaching that we should love one another because it is a fitting message to preach. It is not preaching it because it is a pretty sentiment. The church is preaching this gospel of love because it is the only adequate gospel to solve our problems and bring peace upon our sea of troubles.

We are not going to save the world with beautiful words, either in pulpit or platform. "Though I speak with the tongues of men and of angels, and have not love, I am become sounding brass, or a clanging cymbal." Knowledge and information are not going to save the world. "Though I have the gift of prophecy, and understand all mysteries, and all knowledge, but have not love, I am nothing." Charity is not going to save the world. "Though I bestow all my goods to feed the poor, and though I give my body to be burned, and have not love, it profiteth me nothing." There must be a spirit that binds humanity together, a spirit that is great enough to hold humanity together, and that is love. For "Love suffereth long and is kind; love enviieth not; love vaunteth not itself, is not puffed up, doth not behave itself unseemly, seeketh not her own, is not provoked, thinketh no evil; rejoiceth not in iniquity, but rejoiceth in the truth; beareth all things, believeth all things, hopeth all things, endureth all things. Love never faileth: but whether there be prophecies, they shall be done away; whether there be tongues, they shall cease; whether there be knowledge, it shall be done away." "And now abideth faith, hope, love, these three; but the greatest of these is love."

But we are told that this is impractical, that it won't work, that this gospel has broken down. It would be all right if this world were full of ideal people, but it will not work as the world now is constituted. In the face of this orgy of hate it does sometimes seem futile to preach the power of love. But, my friends, let us take heart. This orgy of hate will some day spend itself. The great god of war will close his dripping jaws, his disgusting maw distended with enough of the bodies of men, because the chords in the hearts of the nations will be struck by the angels of their better nature and they will know that they ought to live together in peace, as comrades and not as foes. No other foundation for peace has any man laid than that which is laid in the gospel of love and good will.

God loves you and you ought to love each other. That is the unchanging message of the church. It is not merely the message which the church must preach from the pulpit; it is the message which the church must preach in its life, its ideals and its work. Jesus did not do very much formal preaching of the love of God, but He lived it all the time. Matthew has a phrase which shows how close Jesus came to the people. He says He "touched" them. He touched the sick woman and she got well; He touched the man who was filled with leprosy and he was restored to the sweet companionship of his fellows; He touched the blind man's eyes and he saw. And as Jesus touched men's hands and eyes

He touched their hearts and they knew that God loved them and that they ought to love each other. The great preaching of this church is not to be from the pulpit; I grow increasingly skeptical of saving people through the ears alone. The great preaching of this church will be done through the work of this church and through the ideals which it upholds in character and in conduct.

Oh, what a situation this First Congregational Church has here on a corner,

"Where the race of men go by,
The men that are good
The men that are bad,
As good and as bad as I.
Then why should we sit in the scorner's seat,
Or hurl the cynic's ban;
Let me live in a house by the side of the road
And be a friend to man."

There are those who are telling us that the church of God which has lived "a thousand years the same" is soon to go; that it has about outlived its usefulness now, and will soon pass away. They are false prophets. They are not reckoning with their host. They are not considering upon what foundations the church stands. What was it that Coxe said in his hymn that we were just now singing:

"But, Lord, Thy Church is praying yet,
A thousand years the same,"

"Praying yet" a thousand years the same. The prayers of the ages do not change much. Worried men are praying now as they did a thousand years ago, "Give us this day our daily bread!" Weak men are praying yet as they did a thousand years ago: "Lead us not into temptation but deliver us from evil." Troubled men are still asking the question as they did a thousand years ago, "What shall I do to inherit eternal life?" Afflicted men are still asking with quivering lip the question which they asked 2,000 years ago: "If a man die shall he live again?" And so long as men pray these prayers and ask these questions the Church of Christ will live. So long as men struggle and fail and sin and are worried, they will cry out for the unchanging message of the church: "God loves you." And so long as human society is not what it ought to be and men are selfish and passionate and willful they will need the unchanging message of the church: “You ought to love each other.” And unless men change as men have never changed, and unless men’s experience with life and death shall be utterly different from what that experience has always been, the Church of Christ will last as long as the race endures.

“We mark her goodly battlements,
And her foundations strong;
We hear within the solemn voice
Of her unending song.

For not like kingdoms of the world
The holy church, O God!
Though earthquake shocks are threatening her,
And tempests are abroad.

Unshaken as eternal hills,
Immovable she stands,
A mountain that shall fill the earth,
A house not made by hands.”

THE LORD'S SUPPER

BY STEPHEN M. NEWMAN, D.D.

Communion sermon at the Fiftieth Anniversary of the First Congregational Church, Sunday Afternoon, November 14, 1915.

Words at any length are never appropriate at serving what we call the table of our Lord, but you will forgive me if I try to make a suggestion as to something which perhaps may mark the heart of what we are trying to do. Any exercise in which we engage, any day of our lives which we live, must in its very nature be a mediation between the past and the future. Life is always trying to get out of its past into the larger and more sufficient circumstances of that which is to come. We are never so complete, never so filled with life and power, as to feel that we have finished our course. Today is a mediation between all days which we have spent and all days which are to come. It is not a thing in itself. It has no significance except as receiving into itself the things which have gone before and as having at its heart the germ of what is to be. We never stop. If we stop we die. So I wish to remind you that this service is not an end in itself. It is not a place where we are to cease to live but a place where we are to learn to live. It is not a spot to which we bring our love for the Lord Jesus and our reverence for things divine, counting that love and reverence complete, but it is a place where what love we bring and what reverence we have are to be inspired for time to come.

The significance of the Lord's Supper is not greatly dwelt upon in what we call the synoptic gospels, Matthew, Mark and Luke, but in John's gospel, in those rich and fruitful chapters, the fourteenth, fifteenth and sixteenth chapters and last of all that wonderful prayer in the seventeenth chapter, we find that what Christ meant by his request of his disciples, that they remember him, meant more than that they should stop at any moment and congratulate themselves upon knowing him and loving him. We learn in those great chapters, with their rich wisdom surpassing all human intellects in understanding, that what Christ meant was that the disciples should get by means of this supper a serenity incapable of being disturbed, a power which should balk at no obstacles, a hope which would look past every cloud with an undimmed expectation of the future. These things are all there.

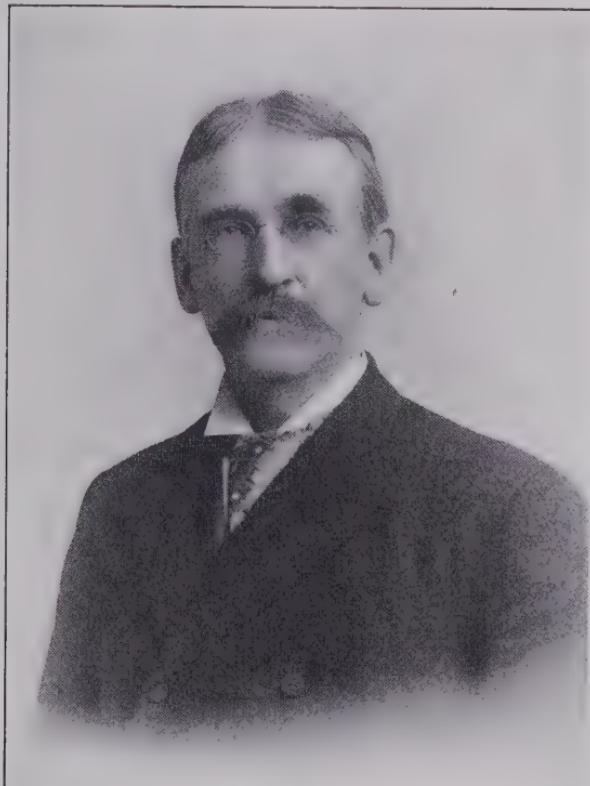

FIG. 16.—REV. STEPHEN M. NEWMAN, D.D.
THIRD PASTOR OF THE CHURCH, 1885 TO 1906.

"Let not your heart be troubled. Ye believe in God; believe also in me," or as I prefer to read it: "Ye believe in God, ye believe in me." "Peace I leave with you. My peace I give unto you. Not as the world giveth give I unto you. Let not your hearts be afraid." With these other parts of this great quartet of chapters, as divided by man, we find that there is running through them all that same radiance of life and hope and peace and power.

This supper then is a mediation between the low thoughts of the past and the high thoughts of which we are capable, between the frailties of the past and the strength of the future, between the hopes which have perhaps faltered at certain points and the hope which maketh not ashamed of the future. Let us feel that this sitting here is not a moment simply of emotionally pleasant association or simply one of historic value. If it is historic it is not worth the while because the fiftieth anniversary as a spot in time is no more than the fortieth. It is not a bit more than the anniversary that you might divide any year into. Forty-two years and six months, any moment, is as good as any other if you make it so, but we are creatures of circumstance. Oh, how we live upon them, how much we get out of them! How our hearts are exhilarated and our strength multiplied and how our souls look with quickened emotions and clarified vision through the clouds and into the very heavens where our Master is. It comes to pass then that the thronging memories of this present moment enrich us. If I were to begin and speak here of that multitude of gracious, strong and serviceable worshippers watching us from the heavens because they sat at this table and enjoyed this fellowship, and were to enumerate them with a word or two about each, I would not cease until nightfall. No church ever had more wonderful personalities within it. No church has a greater reason for believing that the gift of those personalities to its membership, to its construction, to its life in the community, will prove a justification for almost anything in the future in the way of hope and determination and power. As we come here let us remember the host of the past, let us remember the thronging future years which are coming to our doorsteps with untold rapidity, asking for admission and for sanctification. May God bless this church and keep it, give it wisdom and blessing and peace, especially that peace which is not given as the world giveth, that serenity which cannot be disturbed, that power which is the power of the Holy Spirit, that undimmed expectation that the future may have openings of light and accomplishment and service in it beyond the utmost that you could ask. May God abide here.

THE SUPREME AIM

BY REV. SAMUEL H. WOODROW, D.D.

Anniversary Sermon at the Fiftieth Anniversary of the First Congregational Church, Sunday Evening, November 14, 1915.

I need not tell you that I feel very much at home tonight. It is to me a real pleasure to stand in this familiar place and look into so many familiar faces. It touches my heart deeply to think that in these busy days you remember a man for two years and a half and are willing to come out through a storm to listen to any message he may bring. I still have the same feeling for this church that I have always had. I rejoice in these beautiful decorations, commemorative of the Fiftieth Anniversary; but there is no decoration so appropriate to a church as a full pew. When you cannot have flowers in the galleries and over the organ and on the platform if you will fill the pews I know it will cheer the heart of any pastor that may come to you. We have been having very delightful times in these days of celebration of this Fiftieth Anniversary.

It is a woman's privilege to have the last word, but that last word is accorded me tonight. As I tried to think over the message I might bring I have been led to ask myself the question, as I have asked it a great many times, "What am I preaching for?" That is a solemn question for a minister to ask who really wants to know what he ought to do and the message he ought to bring. I have asked myself repeatedly, "What ought a church to do in the name of Jesus Christ and just what character of men and women ought the members to be, what are the activities in which they ought to be engaged, just what does Jesus want the minister, and just what does He want the church which bears His name, to do?"

I call your attention to a text that sums up in almost every way my conception of the supreme aim of the church. It is found in the last words of Jesus Christ in the seventeenth chapter of John and the third verse:

"And this is life eternal, that they might know thee, the only true God, and Jesus Christ, whom thou hast sent."

It is well for us as churches to get very clearly before ourselves the purpose for which we exist. All roads and all means of conveyance are alike to the man who has no goal, but give him a goal and at once the best road and the best method of conveyance become all-important. If preaching is to be effective, if Christian instruction is to be intelligent, if missionary effort is to be sustained and successful, then the church of Jesus Christ must know the direction in which she is to march and the goal that she is at last to attain.

We come together in our churches and our various organizations and oftentimes we become so busy in watching the wheels go round, that we forget what the wheels are in existence for. We have our preaching services and our prayer meetings, our sisterhoods and brotherhoods, our Sunday schools and young people's societies and bands of mercy and other wheels, each running its own way, and we forget that each wheel is a part of a great machine. When men build a machine shop they generally decide whether they are going to manufacture watches or automobiles or steam engines or munitions of war, and the product that is to be the result determines all the machinery, and every wheel that is set in motion has in view a watch or an automobile or a steam engine at the end of the process. So there should be no unnecessary wheels in our churches; we need machinery, buildings and power to make them effective. A machine without power is utterly useless and power that has no machine to give it expression is equally useless. So we need to determine very clearly what it is we are trying to do, why it is that we have this machinery in existence, and then we ought to gear up every wheel to the machine, having constantly in mind the finished product of the Christian Church.

If this question had been asked fifty years ago, when the First church was founded, the answer would probably have been given very promptly and it would have been thought to be all-inclusive; it would have been said, "The work of the church is the saving of souls." But such an expression as that in our day has a sort of ghostly, other-world sound; we prefer to speak of the saving of humanity, for if we are ever to save a man we must save all of the man. There is no such thing as saving a soul apart from the body in which it dwells. If a man is to be saved we must save his mind from evil thoughts, his heart from unholy affections, and his body from evil passions and desires. When we want to raise a building we do not put the jack-screws under the eaves but under the sills, and when we put them under the sills we lift all there is above them. So in our day in our appeal to men and women we want to save not merely the man but we want to save all of the man, save his mind for the highest thought, his heart for the purest affection, his soul for the holiest purposes, in order that the whole man may move with all his might during all his life in one direction and that direction a good one.

Harnack in his "What is Christianity?" has defined it as "Eternal life in the midst of time and under the eye of God." That is a good definition, but we do not like to think of it as merely a pursuit of eternal life. As a boy I had no patience with Bunyan's pilgrim. I read the book several times, and I had a father myself and I could not imagine my father running away with his fingers in his ears leaving mother and the children back in the city of destruction. I know Pilgrim came back for them after a time but I never liked him in that particular regard. It always seemed to me that the man who was chiefly concerned about saving his own soul had not much of a soul to save anyway. The man who gets busy in trying to save somebody else demonstrates the worth of his own soul and of his own life. Professor Brown, who has written a book on "The Essentials of Christianity," has said that the fundamental is "Divine sonship and human brotherhood revealed and realized through Jesus Christ." That is a beautiful definition. Divine sonship, that we are the sons and daughters of God, and that we are so now, and that it will yet be revealed the manner of men we are to be, a glory we could not understand if we were told about it here tonight. And then that great principle of human brotherhood that the church ~~has~~ emphasized from the beginning but which has been so little practiced in the world and which seems wholly forgotten in a large portion of the world today. That is the divine sonship and human brotherhood revealed to us and some day to be realized through Jesus Christ.

And then Professor Stalker in that beautiful life of Christ he wrote some years ago brings it to a close by the statement that the program of Christianity is the lifting up of humanity to the ideals and life of Jesus Christ. What a great and glorious program that is, the lifting up of all life to the ideals and character of Jesus Christ. What a different world it would be if such a program as that could be realized in our own day.

Now it is difficult to give a definition that covers all points and to give it briefly, but I think with the text as the basis a definition such as this might be given: That the supreme aim of the church is to bring men to a knowledge of Him whom to know aright is life eternal, to an exercise of that love which is the fulfilling of the law, and to the service of humanity under the guidance of God's holy spirit. Never, until knowledge and love and service enter in, is a man truly and thoroughly Christian. Sometimes we separate these, but we do it to our own harm. If mere intellect enters into the proposition we have the cold philosopher or the speculative theologian. Then we have that horror of horrors, called rationalism, where we just split theological hairs and so become too narrow and cramped to suit ourselves or please our friends. If we eliminate intellect and put warmth and affection into our religion we have the ascetic monk, who withdraws entirely from the world to save his own soul, or we have the dreaming mystic or we have a perfervid evangelism with its waves of emotion that stir the heart and then leave it colder than it was before. If we have merely service—and we now hear a great deal about practical philanthropy, pragmatism, and social service—then we have the busy reformer who has no real, deep roots and who has little power of vision. But given a Christian who has knowledge and love and service combined and you have the perfect Christian, knowing God, loving Christ, serving humanity.

Now an important question at once arises: How are we to come to this knowledge of God and how are we to bring others to a knowledge of God? We turn to the pagan religions and we study comparative religions and we are deeply interested. Indeed, it is an interesting process, and we gain little gleams of light, tapers shining in the dark, for God has not left Himself without witness among the peoples on the face of the globe. It may be a revolving prayer wheel, it may be a prayer flag tied to a bush in India, it may be a stone on top of a votive pile, it may be a horse shoe tacked up on a door. But wherever it is found it is a testimony to the great fact that everywhere and in all ages man has felt his dependence upon some force that was outside himself, has felt that somehow or other there ought to be a method whereby he could come into touch and be on the side of and win the favor of that Great Power that he felt manifested outside him in the world and that he felt struggling in his own bosom. We gain something from a study of comparative religion.

We gain something from a study of science. There is an impression abroad that somehow or other science and religion must always be in continual conflict, but if you turn to your Old Testament and read the words of the Psalmist you find, "The heavens declare the glory of God, and the firmament sheweth His handiwork;" a true statement. If God made the world and all there is in the world, then the more we know about the world God made the greater will be our wonder and admiration at His wisdom and His goodness. I am surprised that people feel that some time or other wise men investigating the world, seeing what the earth's crust is, cataloguing the stars in the sky, or measuring the radiation from the sun, are going to discover something that will eliminate God from the universe and prove to man that he is only a clod of earth. If God made the world and if God inspired the Word then somehow or other the Word and the world will correspond when our knowledge is adequate to see the point of correspondence. But science left to itself can never develop spirituality in man. The function of science is to examine and tell us what things are, dealing with the material world and material things. To be sure, in our day its investigations carry it beyond that, so that scientists begin to deal with things that have been hitherto unknown, and science may be able to tell us of ethers and gases and electrons and all the rest of them, so science is being forced to become spiritual as it proceeds along that way.

A great philosophic historian like John Fiske may find the way through nature up to God, but for the majority of mankind it is a great labyrinth where they lose their way. Philosophy can do something for us. It is the function of philosophy to explain all that exists. It not only asks what is there but asks why it is and seeks to find a reason for everything and to gather all things into a great unity, into a system that can be explained in terms of reason. Theology has always had to do with philosophy; it could not do its work without some sort of philosophy underlying it. But again I say if we hold merely to philosophy then it becomes a question of terms and definitions and theories, dealing with matters that never reach the heart or change the conduct.

So at last we are forced back for our knowledge of God to this Book that we call the Bible. It is here that in a special way God is revealed to mankind, and in that wondrous revelation we need both of the Testaments. There are some people who in our day feel that it would have been a great advantage if somehow the Old Testament had been lost about the time of the discovery of America and we had only the New Testament with all its sweetness and light left to us, but I submit to you that the great conception we have of the creator of the universe and Lord of all, as One who calls the whole universe into being, as One who holds the nations in the hollow of His hand, we get from the Old Testament. If we eliminate this our conception of God will be weak and paltry compared to the conception which we now have. How manifold those declarations are. In Isaiah and in the Psalms and in the Book of Job and elsewhere the great, lofty conception of the Creator and Lord of all is such as to cause us to bow our foreheads in the dust and urge no claim upon divine omnipotence except our own unworthiness:

"Lord, Thou hast been our dwelling place in all generations. Before the mountains were brought forth, or ever Thou hadst formed the earth and the world, even from everlasting to everlasting Thou art God."

"Whither shall I go from thy spirit, or whither shall I flee from thy presence? If I ascend up into heaven, thou art there; if I make my bed in Sheol, behold Thou art there; if I take the wings of the morning and dwell in the uttermost parts of the world, even there shalt Thou lead me, and Thy right hand shalt guide me."

Who would eliminate passages like that from the Bible? We gain our conception of the strength and majesty and glory and sublimity of God, who needs not the petty devices of man, from this Old Testament Scripture. When you turn to the New Testament you get sweetness. The two go together. When you say a man is my friend or my enemy I ask you what kind of a man he is. If he is a physical, and intellectual, and moral weakling it does not matter much whether he is a friend or foe. But when you tell me he is wise in intellect, strong and steadfast of purpose, then I would like to know whether he is for or against me. So when the Old Testament has given this conception of the Supreme God and you turn to the New Testament it seems like a rosy morning without cloud—an angel chorus over Bethlehem, the birth of a little child who is to lead his people in right ways—a Saviour who teaches us that this Supreme Power marks the sparrow as it falls and cares for us as a father cares for his children.

Now we are saved not by believing the Bible, but by trusting in that Jesus whom the Bible reveals. It would have saved a great deal of trouble in the world if that conception could only have been held in ages past. People have thought that somehow there was a charm just in having a Bible in the house, that there was some benefit in having read it through a time or two, but what did Jesus say to the people of his own time when He spoke of the Old Testament Scripture: "Ye search the Scriptures for in them ye think ye have eternal life, and these are they that testify of me, but ye will not come to me that ye might have life." If we are ever saved then we are not saved because we have the Bible but because the Bible has brought us face to face with Jesus Christ, and we have learned to know Him and know the love of God as revealed in Him. One may know all the geography and archeology and history of the Bible, may be able to repeat large sections of it, and be as far away from Christ as the heathen that bows down to a god of wood or stone. Never until we have looked into the face of Jesus Christ and surrendered our souls and our love and our life to Him have we been really saved.

Now, we have in addition to the Bible all the Christian history. This church is celebrating its Fiftieth Anniversary, but this church did not spring out of nothingness fifty years ago. Read the records and you will find that a group of people who were already Christians brought letters and covenanted together, and that other people who had not known Christ before were brought by other Christian people, and united on confession. So that this church fifty years ago was really a part of other churches that had existed previous to that time, the product of Christian forces that were at work in the world. And if you go back to that little handful of people who came over in the Mayflower, the Pilgrims, some of whose descendants are here and worship in the First Church, they did not make religion; that was not the beginning of religion. There had been other groups of Christians from whom they differed in their opinions, but from whom they received much. And so you can go back through all the Christian centuries, through the monks and monasteries to Augustine and the early Christian fathers, and Paul and Peter and the rest, and you find Christianity rooted by the side of Joseph's empty tomb. We have people in all the world worshipping today because of the effect of years ago. Jesus said to Peter when he confessed, "Thou are Christ, the Son of the Living God," "Thou art Peter, and on this rock I will found my Church and the gates of hell shall not prevail against it."

Every church founded on those who have faith in Jesus Christ as the Son of the living God, is a church truly catholic and apostolic.

I have dwelt thus long on the importance of bringing men and women to a knowledge of God, revealed in Jesus Christ, because I believe that of that knowledge, love and service flow as naturally as waters bubble up from a living spring. If we only know God as he is, if we only get a true conception of Jesus Christ, how can we help loving Him, and if we love God with all our hearts how can we refrain from serving Him, in the way he indicates?

To those of you who were here this morning I do not need to dwell upon the second part of the definition, the bringing of men to the love of Jesus Christ, as Doctor Stocking spoke of the two great commandments that I intended to dwell upon at some length. The young man came to Jesus and asked concerning eternal life, "What good thing must I do to inherit eternal life?" and Jesus told him to keep the commandments and he said he had done so, and Jesus looked upon him, and loved him, and put to him the great test. When He gave him the two commands summing up all, the love of God and love to your neighbor, Jesus said, "This do and thou shalt live." The young man had an absolutely correct theory of religion, but he had never put his theory into practice. That is the trouble with great multitudes of people living nominally Christian lives—they have a right theory of religion but they are not practicing the theory. And then the young man quibbled as to who his neighbor was and Jesus gave the parable of the good Samaritan and asked, "Who was neighbor to this man?" and the young man said, "The man who did good," and Jesus answered, "This do and thou shalt live." You are hunting for eternal life and you will find it along the pathway of love to God that makes it a pleasure for you to worship before Him and that love for humanity that makes it a pleasure to go out in the name of Christ and serve humanity.

There is a great judgment program, and I have often thought of it. There is not a word said about an orthodox creed. A great many discussions have been held as to what orthodoxy is and people have been killed because of their beliefs, and then there has been a great discussion about the millinery of the church, what we ought to wear or ought not to wear, other discussions as to the amount of water a man ought to have placed on the outside of him to insure salvation, other questions as to ritual, or how to worship God. These may be important and they certainly are for those who think so and they may help them to eternal life; but when the Great Book was opened and the judgment day was set they were not asked what their theology was nor how they worshipped God nor about their millinery; the great test was: Had they real religion expressed in love and service? "I was naked and ye clothed me; I was an hungered and ye gave me meat; I was sick and in prison and ye visited me."

A cup of cold water given to a disciple in the name of Jesus does not fail of its reward. But, mark you, the cup of cold water is of value because it is given in Christ's name. I have heard that verse quoted again and again and the important part is left out—the cup of cold water in the name of the living Christ does not fail of its reward. That same water given by a man who has no care for God and no love for humanity does fail of its reward. It is not merely the act but the spirit in which it is performed. And then we have this whole realm of Christian service; we do well to lay emphasis upon it. In my view there never was a time when the church of Christ was so seriously considering her mission as now. Many of the things in which we trusted have been shattered. Many had an idea that by some sort of evolutionary process life would come to be higher and higher until at last we would become perfect. Then this horrible war broke out, and our trusted theories went by the board and we feel we have got to get back to something more permanent. The church is trying to discover what her mission is in order that she may set herself to the performance of genuinely Christian tasks, and we look out into the world and in the name of Christ we go forth to do that work.

Now if we have these three things I have mentioned, knowledge of God, love of Jesus Christ, service to humanity, under the guidance of the Spirit we will be the perfect Christian that measures up to the stature of the fullness of Jesus Christ. You will see that in this plan we have something for every part of our nature, that we have knowledge for the mind of the highest quality. All the data of science, all the truths of divine revelation are ours. We are told that God has all of the wisdom of the ages, all that has been discovered and all that can be discovered, and the world is God's world and we are his people and we are just here to know it in so far as we can. And we say:

"Let knowledge grow from more to more,
Yet more of reverence in us dwell;
That mind and heart according well,
May make one music as before—but vaster."

There is no angel but would covet the task of going out to live like Christ and talk like Christ and try to win others to Christ. The angels are not permitted to be the preachers of righteousness in the world because they never lived in it; they never knew what its temptations and trials and vicissitudes were; they have never had the experience of Christ's salvation, and so they are not able to preach. They can only look over the battlements of heaven and pray that power may be given to reach the hearts and change the lives of men.

Thoughts of the highest for the mind, love of the purest for the heart, service of the noblest—these call out all our activities.

Now, if our churches and our ministers would only catch the vision that after all it is not ceremony and rituals or raiment but love, know that it is only by well doing that we can put to silence the captious criticisms of evil men, know that our business is to stand in this world and to say to all the world—"Come and see Jesus;" look into His face and, looking into His face, learn to love Him as I have learned to love Him.

Come and see Jesus as the Babe of Bethlehem, sanctifying forever all child life. See him in the home at Nazareth, obedient to his parents; increasing in wisdom and stature and in favor with God and man—an example for every growing boy and girl. See Him all these unknown years working at his humble task in the carpenter shop, sanctifying by his holy example all manual labor. See him as he goes about preaching, uttering such words as never had fallen from human lips. See him as the Great Physician, when he touches the blind eyes and they open upon a world of glory; when he touches the deaf ears and they become attuned to harmony of sweet sounds, as he touches the dumb tongue and it breaks forth into glad hozannas; as he touches the palsied limbs and they thrill with new life. See him as he hangs on Calvary and prays that most marvelous of all prayers—"Father, forgive them, for they know not what they do." See him as he breaks the chains of Joseph's tomb and gives us the assurance that as he lives, so our loved ones shall live also. See him as he ascends before the enraptured gaze of his disciples and a sunlit cloud receives Him out of their sight. See Him as He is now enthroned at the right hand of God in glory and then say of Him, "Thou, O Christ, art the Son of the living God! Thou, O Christ, shall be my Saviour from sin; my strength in life; my hope in death, and my portion forever more;" and "this is life eternal, that they may know Thee the only living and true God, and Him whom Thou hast sent, even Jesus Christ."
